TROOPS ORDERED TO SUPERVISE VOTING IN MEMPHIS

DEMOCRAT BODY RULES BROTHERS DIDN'T QUALIFY

Unanimous Vote Leaves Overton Unopposed For Re-election To Senate

2 CONGRESS CANDIDATES DECIDE TO ABANDON RACE

W. B. Clarke Of Monroe Drops Out Of Campaign For Post On State Bar

BATON ROUGE, La., July 30.—(AP)—The Democratic state central committee here today declared United States Senator John H. Overton the party's nominee for the November general election and rejected the qualification papers filed by Robert H. Brothers, Shreveport, who sought to run as Overton's opponent in the September 13 primary as irregular.

The committee accepted the arguments made before it by Harvey G. Fields, Shreveport, one of three protesting members, that Brothers' papers did not follow the technical verbiage required under the primary law and that he did not qualify with the chairman of the state committee as required under the law.

Brothers who described himself as "an unterrified Huey P. Long Democrat" pleaded with the committee for a liberal interpretation of the primary law in order that he might be accepted as a candidate.

"Multiplied thousands of Democrats in Louisiana are watching you," Brothers said. "If you do not permit the people to vote on who is to be United States senator they will say 'you are afraid.'"

Brothers told the committee that in the absence of Governor Richard W. Leche, chairman of the committee, from the state, he consulted A. W. Newlin, New Orleans, secretary of the committee, on qualifying and that

ANDERS PARTY GIVEN WELCOME

President Of Chamber Of Commerce Surprised At Station Here

A genuine surprise party was accorded Willis H. Anders, president of the Chamber of Commerce and sales-manager of the Columbian Gasoline corporation, when he and Mrs. Anders and grandson, Willis H. Anders III, returned from a fortnight's vacation spent in Hendersonville, N. C., on a morning Illinois Central Railroad train Saturday.

On the station platform to greet them were Mayors H. H. Benoit and H. B. Williams, Jr., of Monroe and West Monroe respectively; R. C. Stokes, president of the junior board; George D. Holland, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; A. B. Clarkson, E. C. Gibson, Joe Marx, C. E. Woolman, Sam Walker, A. N. Robinson, S. A. Moss, and other Chamber of Commerce members, together with representation from the press.

A photographer was on hand and a picture was taken of the assemblage.

Mr. Anders was showered with good wishes on his return and after he had recovered from his surprise, he expressed deep appreciation for the expressions of good will.

EUCHARISTIC ALTAR DESIGN SELECTED

NEW ORLEANS, July 30.—(AP)—Famous architecture of old New Orleans will influence the design of the outdoor altar before which thousands of Catholics will worship during the Eighth National Eucharistic congress here in October.

Archbishop John Francis Rummell announced selection of plans for the altar today. The design is the work of Jack J. H. Kessels, New Orleans architect.

The cruciform platform will be distinguished by use of iron work railings and supports copied from famous old buildings of the city's Vieux Carre (old quarter).

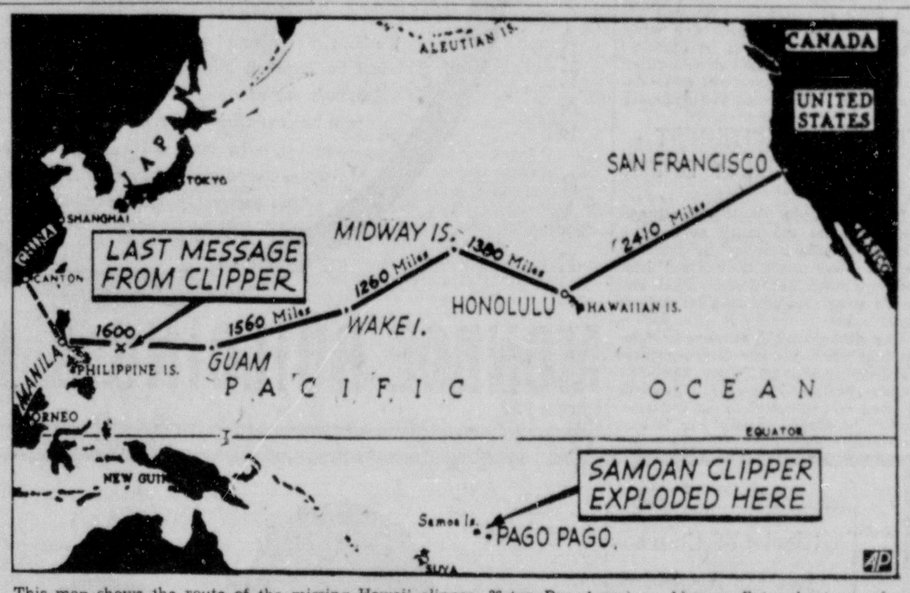

"I recalled," explained the architect, "that all nations and all peoples have not only gone to religion for their art, but they have also used their native art and treasures for religious purposes."

It was estimated the altar, costing about $12,000 would take about 60 days to construct. It will be located at the open end of the stadium in City park.

The platform will occupy a space 120 feet square. The platform will be different levels to permit the proper placing of dignitaries. Also it will be an altar and a throne for the papal legate. It will provide seating space for 150 archbishops and bishops and 400 monsignori and papal knights.

ROUTE OF MISSING HAWAII CLIPPER

This map shows the route of the missing Hawaii clipper, 26-ton Pan American Airways flying boat now long overdue at Manila, P. I., out of Guam. Fifteen persons were aboard. Note that the map shows approximate point from which last message from the clipper was received, also area in which the same company's Samoan clipper exploded early in January. A huge oil slick was found yesterday near where the plane last reported.

INSURGENTS HALT EBRO RIVER DRIVE

Franco Fails, However, To Regain Ground Lost To Government Forces

HENDAYE, France (At The Spanish Frontier), July 30.—(AP)—Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco appeared tonight to have halted the government's Ebro river offensive with a tremendous concentration of men and planes but had failed to regain any lost ground.

The government continued to push troops westward across the Ebro but Barcelona dispatches conceded that the imposing array of insurgent strength had "slowed down operations."

Several hours of insurgent counter-attack by land and air failed to budge Barcelona's south Catalonia forces from the territory they had won since last Monday's surprise thrust across the Ebro—estimated at between 190 and 240 square miles.

The Ebro line remained little changed in the past two days. The government thus far had failed to capture Gandesa, former nerve center of Franco's south Catalonia forces.

Reports from each side indicated the insurgents were making ready a heavy counter-offensive designed to sweep the government back across the Ebro

ROW OVER RADIO MAN DELAYS SHIP

NEW ORLEANS, July 30.—(AP)—The United Fruit company steamer Sixaola sailed for Havana with 84 tropical cruise passengers tonight after seven hours delay because the crew of 60 men had demanded the radio operator be discharged.

The unlicensed personnel at first refused to sign for the voyage, their spokesmen accusing Chief Radio Operator Harold Zahn of telling passengers on previous trips that they did not have to tip stewards.

They agreed to sign after New York officials of the National Maritime union, in which they are enrolled, advised them to sail the vessel. The union is a Committee for Industrial Organization affiliate.

"The radio operator is coming off the ship at the end of this voyage," said Frank E. Rinaldo, shore delegate for the union at New Orleans, after the Sixaola sailed.

Hayo Rodenberg, New Orleans marine superintendent for the United Fruit company, said the company had not agreed to discharge Zahn, but would arbitrate the matter.

INSURED JOBLESS GET $40,000,000 IN JUNE

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(AP)—Insured jobless workers in 25 states were paid about $40,000,000 in unemployment benefits during June and had received approximately $180,000,000 during the six months ended June 30.

The Social Security board, making public the figures today, estimated 2,500,000 workers were aided during the first half of 1938 for varying periods of total or partial unemployment.

The state list showed these benefit claims for June, payments for that month, and total payments through the first six 1938 months: Louisiana, 12,620, $430,064 and 1,500,014; and Mississippi, 7,965; $210,407 and $347,607.

Feeling Query Has Everyone Feeling Dizzy

MILWAUKEE, July 30.—(AP)—Let's see if you can figure this out without getting dizzy . . .

Frederick P. Mett, national labor board counsel, asked a witness at a board hearing here why he felt the way he did toward the Connor Land and Lumber company of Laona, Wis.

"I can't explain why a person feels the way he feels," the witness, a striking employe, answered.

"Well," Mett suggested, "if you felt the way you did feel because the company made you feel the way you did feel, then tell us what it was that the company did that made you feel the way you did feel."

"Well," the witness retorted, "if I felt the way I did feel because I felt the way I did feel, why, then I felt the way I did feel because—"

"Let's have another question," broke in Trial Examiner Sam Jaffee. "How do you feel now?"

"My hands are a little sweaty," the witness replied.

HOPE FADES FOR FINDING CLIPPER

Oil 'Slick' Leads Searchers To Believe Big Plane Plunged Into Sea

MANILA July 31.—(Sunday)—(AP)—A huge and significant oil "slick" found on the ocean surface left searchers with scant hope today of finding the missing Hawaii Clipper and its 15 occupants. But the forlorn hunt continued.

The big oil patch was found yesterday by the army transport Meigs on the course the transpacific flying boat was following between Guam and Manila when it vanished Friday (Thursday night, Pacific time).

Samples dipped up by the Meigs for scientific examination showed the "slick" contained lubricating oil and gasoline. It was about 1,500 feet in circumference and it lay only 50 miles west by southwest of the spot where the plane last reported its position.

Aviation circles regarded the find as evidence that the clipper plunged into the sea, but officials of Pan American

ENGINEER BROTHERS MEET IN COLLISION

HARRISONBURG, Va., July 30.—(AP)—Two engineer brothers, operating different trains on the shortline Chesapeake Western railway, met head-on on a curve today in a collision that killed Leon Sigafoose, 44, and left Melvin Sigafoose, 40, uninjured but stricken with grief.

Walton Sigafoose, son of Melvin, was firing the boiler on the freight train that crashed into the gasoline-driven passenger and mail car operated by his uncle.

This was the first fatal accident to a trainman since the 26-mile line began operation in 1895 with Emory Sigafoose, father of the engineers in today's collision, at the throttle of the first train.

Failure of the motor car to report resumption of its run after being halted by motor trouble was believed responsible for the collision.

JAPS, REDS CLASH AGAIN ON BORDER

Tokyo Reports Recapture Of Disputed Territory In 'Terrible Fight'

TOKYO, July 31 (Sunday).—(AP)—Japan and Soviet Russia came to grips today in what the Tokyo war office described as a "terrible fight" in which Japanese recaptured disputed territory along the Manchoukuo-Siberian border.

The situation was extremely tense. Large bodies of troops were deployed on both sides of the border.

Soviet troops were said to be bombarding one border point with heavy artillery from the hills.

The war office announcement declared that not only did Japanese recapture a hill near Changkufeng which Soviet troops occupied July 15, but all other disputed points.

Apparently what amounted to a major battle added a bloody new chapter to the Changkufeng friction which began with occupation by Soviet troops of the strategic hilltop.

Military regulations forbade disclosure of the number of troops engaged, the casualties, or the size of forces now facing each other in the disputed territory, near the junction of Siberia, Manchoukuo and Korea.

A war office spokesman said:

"Two days ago Soviet troops occupied Shachofeng, approximately 1,000 yards north of Changkufeng hill, and began fortifying it as they had done at Changkufeng."

PARENTS SEEK SON'S AFFECTION

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Anderson of Jamestown, N. Y., have begun a seven-week campaign to "win the affection" of their 9-year-old son, Darwin, shown here with them. Grandparents who reared the child seek his custody. A supreme court judge gave the couple until September 7 to win Darwin's affection pending a ruling.

PROMISES DEWEY TO PLEAD GUILTY AND HELP STATE

Will Testify Against Tammany Leader Hines At Policy Racket Trial

HARM OR DEATH FEARED BY DISBARRED ATTORNEY

Request To Be Placed In Custody Of Prosecutor Granted By Pecora

NEW YORK, July 30.—(AP)—J. Richard (Dixie) Davis, disbarred attorney, was paroled from Tombs prison today after promising District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey he would plead guilty and testify for the state at the forthcoming policy racket trial of James H. Hines, Tammany leader.

Hines, Davis, Martin Weintraub and five others were indicted on charges of conspiracy and operation of the policy game once controlled by Dutch Schultz, slain gangster. The trial of the first three was scheduled to start August 15 before Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora and a jury selected from a special panel.

Fearing bodily harm or death should he be kept in prison, Davis asked to be placed in Dewey's custody. The request was granted by Justice Pecora, who signed the parole order.

Davis was released from his Tombs cell shortly after Justice Pecora signed the order and discharged the $75,000 bail order in which he has been held since his arrest in Philadelphia early in February. Dewey did not disclose where Davis, once attorney for Dutch Schultz, slain gangster, would reside.

The move to free Davis from the Tombs came unexpectedly, although it had frequently been reported that he would testify for the state.

Davis' counsel, George E. Carmody, consented to the discharge of bail, but had no comment to make. Davis was attorney for Schultz at the time the gangster was shot down in a Newark, N. J., tavern in October, 1935.

Indicted in New York county, he fled and was discovered hiding in Philadelphia in the company of his Broadway sweetheart, Hope Dare, red-haired actress.

Held in the Tombs first in $200,000 bail and later in $75,000, Davis sought and was granted permission to receive outside medical and dental attention. He left the prison regularly until it was discovered he also was visiting, besides his doctor, Miss Dare, who had moved into an uptown apartment.

Apparently this was done with Dewey's consent, for Dewey's men accompanied Davis, but the publicity brought an end to the visits. Justice Pecora last Monday refused to sign another order permitting Davis to

MILITIA TO MARCH ON MEMPHIS

Approximately 1,200 Tennessee national guardsmen have been ordered to Memphis for duty in Thursday's Democratic primary, in which Governor Gordon Browning, left, and National Committeeman E. H. Crump, right, Shelby county political boss, are engaged in a finish fight for supremacy in the state.

TROOPS TAKE UP WAR GAME POSTS

Regulars, Guardsmen Participating In Lower Mississippi Maneuvers

BILOXI, Miss., July 30.—(AP)—Thousands of regular army soldiers and guardsmen from the eight southern states of the fourth corps area took up positions today for the opening tomorrow of a war game involving one of the United States' greatest peace time concentrations.

The spirits of Andrew Jackson, Jean LaFitte and Dominique You hovered over the gigantic maneuver, intended as a modern duplication of their effort of more than a century ago when the Tennesseean, ably aided by Barataria's pirate crew, balked the British in the Battle of New Orleans. Then the British sailed into Lake Borgne through the Mississippi sound from the Gulf of Mexico and sought to take the lower Mississippi river valley above New Orleans.

In tomorrow's war game a Brown army, commanded by Major General Albert H. Blanding of the Florida national guard and chief of the national guard bureau of the United States, will "land at Biloxi, and seek to penetrate inland to the area above New Orleans and capture the lower Mississippi river valley.

The modern counterpart of Old Hickory and his pirate cohorts will be a Blue army commanded by Major General Henry D. Russell of Macon, Ga.

Headquarters for the Brown invaders will be at Camp Wilkes in Naval Reserve park, Biloxi, with Mississippi, Louisiana, Florida and Alabama guardsmen in the command. The Blue defenders, Tennessee, North and South Carolina and Georgia troops, will base on Camp Shelby, near Hattiesburg.

LABOR CONSPIRACY CASE WITH JURY

LONDON, Ky., July 30.—(AP)—Foreman L. F. Johnson of the jury of 12 mountain men deliberating the Harlan anti-labor conspiracy case reported to Federal Judge H. Church Ford tonight, "It looks like it will be an impossibility to make a verdict."

The judge replied:

"I'm not at all surprised that a case of this magnitude can not be agreed on in a few hours of consideration. Gentlemen, recess until Monday. You've had a long day. Relax tomorrow and don't discuss the case until you come here to resume deliberations at 9 o'clock Monday morning.

The jury took the case under consideration at 2:16 p.m., central standard time and had deliberated five hours and 15 minutes before reporting to the judge. The judge has announced he will not receive a verdict tomorrow.

The trial had run eleven weeks.

Judge Ford said later Johnson had "indicated by his manner" that the jury was ready to give up and go home, but the foreman did not request that they be discharged.

The 39 individual and 17 corporate defendants in the case are charged with banding together to prevent union organization in Harlan county coal fields.

BIG TREATY WITH RUSSIA IN MAKING

Soviet Union To Promise To Spend Millions In United States

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(AP)—The United States is about to conclude a commercial agreement with the Soviet Union by which the Soviets will promise to purchase at least $40,000,000 worth of American products in one year.

The agreement will replace an existing one expiring August 5. Negotiations have been under way for several weeks, being conducted at Moscow under the direction of the American charge d'afaires, Alexander Kirk.

By virtue of the agreement's statement of the Soviet's intention to purchase American products, the U. S. S. R. will receive most-favored-nation treatment from the United States, which means it will be entitled to the tariff and other concessions made by this government in reciprocal trade agreements signed with 17 nations and soon to be signed with more.

Negotiations have been proceeding slowly the last few days, and it may become necessary for the two countries to exchange notes extending the present agreement until the new one is completed.

Under the existing agreement the Soviets agreed to purchase from this

TULANE TIGHTENS SCHOLARSHIP RULES

NEW ORLEANS, July 30.—(AP)—Dr. Rufus C. Harris, president of Tulane university, announced today that eligibility rules for scholarship applicants at Tulane would be tightened.

The revised regulations, he said, provided exclusion from aid of all who are not financially needy or scholastically meritorious.

"The scholarship and exemption figure represents a great proportion of the university's income," Dr. Harris said, "and such expense can be justified only if we are, through these scholarships, bringing the best brains among high school graduates to the university.

"It would seem that this money should be diverted from other worthwhile educational purposes only to benefit those who are mentally fit and really need financial aid. The more rigid rules will facilitate the accomplishment of this purpose."

The announcement also said scholarships would be subject for renewal each year unless otherwise specified by the endowment and that the more rigid rules would apply to athletic scholarships.

DUMP TRUCK DEATH TERMED ACCIDENTAL

HATTIESBURG, Miss., July 30.—(AP)—A coroner's jury tonight returned a verdict of accidental death in the case of Laz Patrick, 38, whose body was found pinned underneath a dump truck today.

Madaline Jones, 14, found Patrick's body while looking for soft drink bottles around a group of trucks which had been parked for the night. Sheriff George W. Boone said Patrick might have been greasing the machine and accidentally tripped the release rod, sending the dump body down upon him.

BROWNING, CRUMP SQUABBLING FOR TENNESSEE VOTES

Governor, Seeking Renomination, Declines To Reveal Military Plans

BOTH SIDES DENOUNCED BY SENATE COMMITTEE

Shelby County Boss Says 'We Will Not Accept Humiliation Tamely'

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 30.—(AP)—Troop trains were ordered today to transport approximately 1,200 national guardsmen to Memphis for duty in Thursday's Democratic primary, in which Governor Gordon Browning and National Committeeman E. H. Crump are commanding opposing forces arrayed for a finish fight over supremacy in Tennessee.

The orders call for the militiamen to move into Crump's stronghold and remain until the polls close.

Browning, seeking renomination, has declined to reveal his plans, but trains were ordered to take 1,137 officers and men of the 117th infantry. That would provide about a squad of soldiers for each of the 126 polling places.

The governor said he would make known his intentions Tuesday following a campaign speech in Memphis, where Mayor Watkins Overton said "every possible police protection" would be given Browning and that "propaganda that he is apt to be hurt is, of course, just wild, silly talk."

Adjutant-General R. O. Smith announced that the 117th infantry would be mobilized tomorrow "subject for duty in the state."

Crump served notice on the governor that "we will not accept humiliation tamely." Saying that Browning "wants to stick bayonets through us,"

NATIONAL GUARD IS OFF FOR CAMP

Local Delegation Will Leave By Special Train Today At 3:05 A. M.

Monroe national guard members will leave the city by special Illinois Central railroad train this morning at 3:05 a.m., en route to Biloxi, Miss., and the annual encampment. The locals will comprise Company G, in charge of Captain Louis F. Rolleigh, and the medical detachment, commanded by Captain W. L. Bendel. On the train when it arrives here will be members of Company E from Shreveport, and Company F from Ruston. Other troops from the Mississippi national guard will board the train at Vicksburg and Jackson.

The advance guard, the service company of the 156th infantry, under command of Captain George Trousdale, First Lieutenant Prentice O. Clark, and Second Lieutenant Raymond Spence, left Monroe Thursday at 3:45 a.m., in four trucks in order to prepare the base of supplies for the 156th infantry.

The two-week encampment will be of special significance this year, as all southern states will send national guards to unite with United States

NO TRACE FOUND OF COWAN GRAVE

ABOARD CRUISER HOUSTON, IN GALAPAGOS ARCHIPELAGO, July 30.—(AP)—Led personally by President Roosevelt, a party of 50 officers and men from the cruiser Houston searched San Salvador island fruitlessly today for the grave of Lieutenant John S. Cowan, of the U. S. frigate Essex, buried on the island in 1813.

One hundred and 24 years of erosion by wind and water evidently had erased all evidence of the grave. Lieutenant Cowan, aged 21, belived killed in a pistol duel with another member of the Essex's company, was buried by Admiral David Porter, then commander of the frigate, which anchored in James bay to search for fresh water and tortoises.

President Roosevelt was assisted in the search by Captain George Paren, Commander Daniel J. Callaghan and Commander Paren N. Barker. They had hoped to be able to remove the remains of Lieutenant Cowan to the United States naval academy at Annapolis, with the permission of the Ecuadorian government.

The party captured two small kids on the island. The animals, believed to be descendants of goats landed by Admiral Porter, were made mascots of the Houston.

MUSSOLINI TAKES SLAP AT CHURCH

Discord Between Vatican And Duce Breaks Out Anew Over Doctrine

FORLI, Italy, July 30.—(AP)—Discord between the church and the Italian state broke out anew today as Premier Benito Mussolini brushed aside papal criticism of the Fascist Aryan race doctrine with 25 scornful words.

In the first announcement he has made personally on racial policy, Il Duce characterized as "absurd" Pope Pius' assertion that it was in imitation of Nazi Germany.

He used 25 words in Italian to tell a group of Fascist party officials in camp at Forli:

"You know and everyone knows that on the question of race also we will march straight ahead.

"To say that Fascism has imitated anyone or anything is simply absurd."

The two sentences from his address were distributed by Stefani, official Italian news agency. No further quotations were made available.

Il Duce's statement that "we will march straight ahead" was the same as he uttered frequently during the Italo-Ethiopian war to express determination to proceed regardless of opposition.

The dispute worried Catholics lest it spread to other matters which, in the past, have been in contention between the church and state. These include activities of Catholic Action, lay organization of the church, and Fascist education of youth.

The race doctrine issued July 14 by a group of Fascist university professors proclaimed Italians as Aryan and a race in themselves. It embodied many features akin to Nazi racial ideas and held that Jews were not a part of "the Italian race."

In appraising it, Pope Pius in an address to students Friday in Castel Gandolfo, his summer home, contrasted it with the church's conception of mankind as "one single great universal human race."

The Fascist press did not publish the pontiff's discourse. L'Osservatore Romano, Vatican newspaper, ignored Mussolini's words today.

The pope in yesterday's issue was quoted as asking in his discussion of the race doctrine "why in the world Italy unfortunately felt the need to imitate Germany."

KIDNAPING CHARGED TO FOUR PERSONS IN TEXAS

DALLAS, Tex., July 30.—(AP)—Four persons, including a prominent physician and his wife, were charged with kidnaping today as officers investigated the asserted confinement of a negro chauffeur in the attic of the physician's home.

Dr. and Mrs. F. H. Newton were freed on bonds of $10,000 each and L. W. Reed, a private detective who said he had been employed to help Mrs. Newton find a thief who stole a $3,000 Chinese jade ring, was jailed after he appeared before a grand jury.

Dr. and Mrs. Newton, Reed, and Charles Blair, negro yard man employed by the Newtons, were charged with kidnaping after officers said they found Mickey Ricketts, 30, with his face covered in bandages, in the attic of the Newton home last night.

HER BIRTHDAY PICTURE

She was a four-year-old frigate of sturdy oak, named the Constitution, when the war of 1812 broke out. Shot from the British cannon bounced off her sides as though she were made of armor plate. Ever after she was known as "Old Ironsides." School children's pennies helped pay for her restoration a few years ago and she is pictured above as she "posed" in Boston harbor on the 140th anniversary of her launching.

Oak Grove

Circle Two of the Methodist Woman's Missionary society met at the residence of Mrs. Frank McCormick for a Bible lesson taught by Mrs. J. R. McIntosh. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. J. T. Williams and opened with the Lord's prayer by the members followed by the Bible lesson. Mrs. Lonnie James read a message from the Missionary News pertaining to the Mission society that had been formed in this country by Koreans. A short session was held at which Mrs. Williams appointed the committees to serve the Lions on ladies' night.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. J. S. Pollard and Mrs. J. R. McIntosh, served a salad plate and fruit punch to the following members besides those named: Mesdames Spencer Farmer, Clyde Turner, Clayton Gunter, J. D. Herring, Lonnie James, J. T. Williams, R. M. Grasby, C. H. Neely and D. M. Copeland. Dismissal prayer was given by Mrs. James.

Both circles will meet at the church for a business meeting at the next session.

The Woman's Department club held a meeting at the Legion hut with 21 in attendance. The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. A. S. Mayo, and was called to order with the members singing "America" with Mrs. W. H. Keller at the piano; "Salute To The Flag," Mrs. R. M. Grasby, color bearer; and "Club Collect" with Mrs. Wm. McG. Dollerhide as leader. Five new members were introduced to the club: Mrs. Norwood Dukes, Mrs. H. F. Lewis, Mrs. Spencer Farmer, Mrs. C. L. Armstrong and Mrs. Dess Howell. Year books for 1938-39 were issued to those in attendance.

The committee in charge of the year books included Mrs. E. O. Burnham, general chairman; Mrs. D. B. Fiske, garden chairman; Mrs. A. C. Monroe and Mrs. F. H. Anders, Mrs. D. W. Kelly, chairman of the literary committee; Mrs. D. M. Copeland and Mrs. J. J. Joyce, Jr.

After the business session the program was turned over to Mrs. W. H. Keller and Mrs. Clyde Turner. The program consisted of "party pranks" which were enjoyed by those present. After the "stunts" Mrs. Keller and Mrs. Turner, assisted by Mrs. I. M. McCurdy, Mrs. W. Byargeon and Mrs. J. S. Lee, served iced watermelons to those present.

The last summer meeting will be held at the Legion hut August 10, with Mrs. D. M. Copeland in charge of the program which will be on "Adult Education" and who will also be hostess to the club at that time.

The Methodist Church Board of Christian Education met recently in the basement of the church. Mrs. W. C. Hudson presided as chairman and Mrs. R. M. Grasby was elected secretary of the organization. Through the combined efforts of the pastor, Rev. E. B. Emmerich, and C. H. Neely, church school superintendent, the church roll was reviewed and the board completed plans for a church school attendance drive. At a recent meeting of the board, Mrs. D. W. Kelly was elected adult superintendent, Mrs. Grasby, young people's superintendent, and Mrs. L. L. James, children's superintendent.

Circle One of the Methodist Woman's Missionary society met at the residence of Mrs. C. L. Armstrong, with Mrs. D. W. Kelly presiding. The topic for discussion was "Builders of the Christian Faith." Subjects discussed were: "The Ringing Exhortation to Religion," by Mrs. A. C. Monroe; "After Aldersgate," Mrs. Jesse James; "Impressions of Kagawa," Mrs. Wm. McG. Dollerhide.

The hostess, assisted by her daughter, Barbara Ann, served assorted cakes and punch.

The spacious lawn of the Sam McIntosh residence at Darnell was the setting for an ice cream supper complimenting Carrie Mae McIntosh.

Among those enjoying the affair were Naomi Pollard, Billy Edmondson, Gloria Koerner, Howard Michell, Kathryn Lee, Matt Redmond of Monroe, Miss Bertha Lou McIntosh, Mr. W. H. Mattis, Mr. and Mrs. Sam McIntosh, Mack McIntosh, the honoree and Felix Anders.

TURKISH NURSES PLAN TO JOIN MILITARY FORCES

ANKARA, Turkey—(AP)—Plans have been launched to create a special corps of trained military nurses to give the women of Turkey a greater part in the army.

The nurses are to be educated with a three years' course at a specially created school. After graduation they will be attached to the army's various medical units for a five-year period, with the chance to re-enlist.

After 20 years' service they will be pensioned.

Only single, well-educated girls between 16 and 23 are eligible.

MILD CORRECTION METED CORRIGAN

Suspension Of License Expires Day Before Flier Arrives In New York

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(AP)—Douglas Corrigan, a young Irishman with an inexpensive airplane who is on the way home to get his compass fixed, got a pat on the back today from the commerce department.

The commerce department must have been worried.

It was faced with the news of thousands of New Yorkers preparing to trample each other underfoot next week in honor of the flyer who skimmed from New York to Ireland—without the department's permission—on July 17.

In short, it was faced with the task of disciplining a man who has the hero-worship of millions.

Here is how the department neatly solved the dilemma:

It sent a radio message to Corrigan aboard the S. S. Manhattan. The message told him his commercial pilot's certificate would be suspended until August 4.

Corrigan is scheduled to land August 5. He couldn't do much flying on shipboard. In effect, the suspension is no suspension at all.

Acting Secretary of Commerce Colonel J. Monroe Johnson, who announced the department's action, said a number of nice things about the flight. He said it aroused "world-wide sentiments of good will" and that it was executed "with daring and skill."

But at the same time, pursuing its duty, the department made it clear that it would like to see all compasses well-oiled in the future.

There must be no more mixing up of Dublin, Ireland, officials said, with Los Angeles, U. S. A.

AMERICAN PLUMBING USED TO MOISTEN MZAB DESERT

ALGIERS—(AP)—Ghardaia, capital of the seven sacred cities of the Mzab plateau in the heart of the Sahara desert, thirsty for centuries, is being supplied with water through American plumbing.

The Mzab plateau, known as "the desert within a desert," receives rainfall only once in seven or eight years. Apart from a small oasis in the hollow of a narrow valley in which Ghardaia, city of a thousand inhabitants, is situated there is nothing but sand and blackened stone, burned through thousands of years of sun.

After centuries of long journeys in search of water, the Mohammedan inhabitants, said to be the most devout in all Islam, now drink and irrigate their gardens with water from an artesian well, 450 feet deep, dug by American engineers. It is pumped to them by American machinery.

GANGSTER FILMS BLAMED FOR JUVENILE PROBLEM

LONDON—(AP)—Gangster films are blamed, in part, for the increase in juvenile crime in England.

A recently issued report shows that the number of indictable offenders under 17 years of age in England and Wales went up from 20,540 in 1934 to 27,126 in 1936.

Two-thirds of the crimes, officials say, are committed by boys and girls working together in gangs under such fancy names as "Black Klan" and "The Secret Seven."

"To many of these children it is just a glorious game," says one official. "Their imaginations become fired by the exploits of the 'tough guys' they see at the movies twice and sometimes three times a week, till at last they decide to form a gang of their own."

DEEP GAS FIELD FOUND IN SAINT JAMES PARISH

NEW ORLEANS, July 30.—(AP)—A new deep gas field for southeast Louisiana was established today on the Hester prospect in St. James parish. Continental Oil company's No. 1 Realty Operators, on the west bank of the Mississippi river, came in last night as a commercial gas well at 6,254 feet.

It had been plugged back from a total depth of 7,499 feet. A test for oil was conducted in the 6,250-foot horizon, but no shows were reported. The test indicated a gas pressure of 2,000 pounds and an ample supply for commercial operations.

It was reported the company would complete the well as a gasser, as an industrial consumer for the gas is nearby.

J. J. MARTIN RETURNS AFTER TRIP TO COAST

J. J. Martin, Monroe business man, who has been recuperating from a recent illness on the gulf coast, has returned here completely recovered after two months on the coast.

Mr. Martin reported that he had completely regained his health and declared that the vacation just concluded was in the nature of a much needed rest.

RATTLESNAKE DAY

DEADWOOD, S. D.—(AP)—Alvin Martin hunts rattlesnakes as his Sunday diversion. His biggest catch was 110 rattlers to fill orders from zoos and a circus.

GUEST SPEAKER

Chester Swor, instructor in Mississippi college and leader of young people, will come to Monroe to participate in the youth's week program at the First Baptist church August 21-28. He is described as an inspirational speaker having great oratorical ability and force of character. He will address the meetings each day while here. Youth week will be observed not only by the Baptist denomination but also all young people of other denominations are invited to patricipate.

TOO MUCH EXCITEMENT SENDS SHIRLEY TO BED

BOSTON, July 30.—(AP)—Tired and feverish from too much excitement, Shirley Temple took her dolls to bed in the royal suite of a hotel here today instead of "doing" Paul Revere's house and retracing his famous ride.

The nine-year-old movie star temporarily gave up her long-cherished sight-seeing tour of Boston after two doctors, called hurriedly when she showed no inclination to eat her usual hearty breakfast, ordered her to rest. The child specialists found that Shirley had a temperature of 100.5 and that she was suffering a slight indisposition any little girl might have.

LOST AND FOUND

OMAHA, Neb.—(AP)—Mrs. Joseph Quartoroli lost her diamond engagement ring while visiting her mother here 10 years ago. A few days ago Philip Brutto, Mrs. Quartoroli's nephew, found the ring partly buried in the garden.

THINK IT OVER

DO YOU REALIZE WHAT IT MEANS TO KEEP YOUR DOLLARS AT HOME

To illustrate, take the printing business of Monroe. There are over 25 (actual survey) business men, large and small, who send out of town more or less for their printing. If the purchase of each one would average $20.00 per year, which is a very conservative estimate, it would amount to $500.00 sent out of town to enrich some other community. Suppose, on the other hand, this $500.00 was kept here in MONROE and circulated in the ordinary channels of trade; it would change hands or pay bills at least three times each week, or 156 times a year. In other words, it would circulate and pay bills to the amount of $780,000.00 each year. If this amount is multiplied by the many other lines of business that are sent out of town, we have a sum that is staggering. DO YOU BUY EVERYTHING YOU CAN IN MONROE? Don't you think, Mr. Merchant and Mr. Business Man, it would pay you to do so? Surely with three-quarter million dollars changing hands here in Monroe every year, some of them would find their way into your till!

AGAIN we say, THINK IT OVER.

HOPE FADES FOR FINDING CLIPPER

airways did not give up hope of rescue. They conceded the slick was "significant, but not conclusive."

Several warships moved into position to continue their search off the east coast of the Philippines pending examination and a further report on the composition of the slick.

The spot in question, however, was not on any ship or air route and experts concluded there could have been no other craft in that area to have caused it.

On many occasions the navy has discontinued searching for its own lost planes upon finding the telltale oil spot on the water.

The Meigs stood by to resume the examination at dawn. Meanwhile warships were en route to the scene, three heavy army bombers were ready to aid the search out of Manila, and two naval planes were to resume scanning the area.

Three destroyers also were reported to have started from San Bernardino straits, at the southeastern tip of Luzon island, to search the ocean between there and the Meigs.

The clipper was about 300 miles off the straits and about 565 miles east of Manila at the time of her last position report, at 12:09 p. m. Friday, Manila time, or 12:09 a. m. Thursday, central standard time.

Some Pan American officials suggested the slick might have been made by the voluntary dumping of "anchor oil" from the plane preparatory to an unscheduled landing at sea, and that the strongly built 26-ton plane might have taxied or drifted away thereafter.

Because it is lighter than water, "anchor oil" remains on the surface and causes choppy seas to "break" before they reach the hull of the ship. This decreases the pounding of the waves against the vessel.

Naval searchers said informally that if the plane had made anything like a safe unscheduled landing at sea she should have been able to respond in some manner to the repeated radio calls, flares and rocket signals used by the hunting craft.

The disappearance of the Hawaii Clipper failed to affect the routine flights of her two sister ships. The Philippine Clipper landed yesterday (Saturday, Pacific time) in Alameda and the China Clipper arrived about the same time in Hawaii.

They passed each other at sea during the night. The Philippine Clipper carried nine passengers and the China Clipper ten.

NECESSITY IS THE MOTHER, ETC.

There'll be no more spoiling of sightly stems by spattering raindrops if Mrs. Bess Hedge of Oklahoma City has her way. Mrs. Hedge is shown donning her new invention—the stocking raincoat—at the inventors' congress in Cincinnati. Made of a flexible and transparent material, the new-fangled creations are supposed to preserve limb loveliness in all weather.

Heads-up inventive genius resulted in the noggin support for sleeping in sitting posiuon which G. L. McClellan, the creator, demonstrates. With the device, one can snooze in a street car seat without fear of bashing the chest with a sharp-pointed chin. This was one of the inventions exhibited at the inventors' congress in Cincinnati, O., McClellan's home town.

TROOPS TAKE UP WAR GAME POSTS

convoys of motor trucks poured soldiers into the area, with additional thousands to arrive tomorrow.

All branches of the mobile troops will be represented, mechanized cavalry, tanks, artillery, infantry and the air corps. Wartime field conditions will be simulated as nearly as possible with the active troops bivouacking in pup tents and fed from field kitchens. The mechanized arms probably will receive a severe test since it has rained daily in the area for more than two weeks, with some of the precipitation very heavy.

The Brown corps will have the benefit of about 25 airplanes in spotting movements of the Blues and the defenders also will be assisted by the air corps in maneuvering for defense, while information as to the progress of the games will be relayed from the air to the staff of 117 army officers who will act as umpires.

In simulating war time conditions news dispatches will not be permitted to recount the actual movements of the Browns and Blues because some of the officers might use the journals for obtaining information as to how to dispose of their men, as sometimes had happened in previous war games, said those directing the maneuvers.

The Brown forces will be made up of approximately 16,000 men and the Blues of 10,000 men.

BROWNING, CRUMP ARE SQUABBLING

he called upon his fellow Memphians to "say to this braggart, 'You'll never do it.'"

Prentice Cooper, backed by the Crump organization for the gubernatorial nomination, compared Browning to the "carpet-bagger governor," William G. Brownlow, and said "policing the polls with bayonets in an effort to intimidate the voters is a defiance of Tennessee democracy and an insult to the intelligence of the people."

Browning said in a speech that when he goes to Memphis he "will tell the people there they are liberated, insofar as it is in the power of the state government to do so."

"The Shelby county (Memphis) crowd is not telling me its plans to steal the election and I am not going to tell them mine to keep them from stealing it," he added.

In the senatorial race Browning is allied with junior Senator George L. Berry, whom he appointed, while Crump and senior Senator Kenneth D. McKellar are backing Tom Stewart of Winchester, a district attorney general.

The third state-wide race is that for nomination to the public utilities commission. Mayor W. D. Hudson of Clarksville is the candidate of the anti-Browning faction against the incumbent, W. H. Turner.

Crump and Browning were allies in the 1936 primary, but broke less than a year later and became bitter enemies.

The senate campaign expenditures committee, in a blistering report made after an investigation had surveyed the senatorial situation in Tennessee, said it "is of the opinion that the evidence already before it with respect to assessments of federal employes by one group" in the primary "and of state employes by the other group points sharply toward an election contest in the United States senate regardless of which candidate triumphs."

The committee reported that "every scheme and questionable device that can be used" to raise funds and influence votes seemed to be "in full swing." Two additional investigators were sent into the state to make a final check-up.

HOPE TO HALT TROOP MOVEMENT

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 30.—(AP)—E. H. Crump, Shelby county political leader, and the city and county administration hoped tonight they would be able to halt the movement of 1,200 national guardsmen into Memphis with a federal injunction.

Charles M. Bryan and Frank M. Gailor, organization lawyers, completed a petition for an injunction to be presented to Federal District Judge John D. Martin, but gave no indication when it would be filed.

or shatter the "people's army" before it could retreat.

The government reported slight gains south of Gandesa, Franco's old regional headquarters, but added that the insurgents were massing infantrymen and field guns in that sector to reinforce insurgent control of several dominating heights.

The reports made no secret of the fact that General Vicente Rojo, government strategist-in-chief there, and his aides, Colonel Enrique Lister and the peasant soldier-chieftain, "El Campesino," were concentrating on entrenching themselves in the hard-won territory in preparation for a general assault.

GETS LIFE TERM

WAYCROSS, Ga., July 30.—(AP)—Verna Mae Fowler, pretty young waitress, was convicted tonight of the "draw-straws" slaying of 12-year-old J. C. Nelson in a $900 insurance plot. She was sentenced to life imprisonment by Superior Judge M. D. Dickerson.

RULE BROTHERS DIDN'T QUALIFY

Newlin told him to confer with David Ellison, secretary to the governor, on how to contact the governor.

The time limit for qualifying was close at hand and Brothers said he had no authority to accept them.

The committee vote, many by proxy, was unanimous and the filing fee of $150 was returned to Brothers. Governor Leche who returned yesterday from a vacation trip in the west presided over the session at which testimony was taken from both sides. Brothers said he was undecided whether he would take the case into the courts.

Candidates for two congressional seats withdrew from the race today and left contests in only four of the eight congressional districts of Louisiana in the primary.

Those who withdrew were State Representative Henry V. Larcade, Jr., Opelousas, opposing Rene L. DeRouen, incumbent, in the seventh district, and O. B. Thompson, Winnfield, who announced against Leonard Allen, incumbent, in the eighth district.

Congressman Paul H. Maloney of the second district (New Orleans) and Robert Mouton, third district, were unopposed.

The withdrawals left the following district contests in the primary, the equivalent of election in Louisiana.

First district—J. G. Fernandez, incumbent; Guy D'Antoni, William Kinsella, New Orleans.

Fourth district—T. Overton Brooks, Shreveport, incumbent; State Representative D. R. Boucher, Spring Hill; J. Frank Colbert, Minden.

Fifth district—Newt V. Mills, Monroe; incumbent; D. Y. Smith and George Wesley Smith, Monroe; Joel Dickinson, Oak Grove; Harvey Todd, Bastrop and State Senator Gove Davis, Grayson.

Sixth district—Dr. John K. Griffith, Slidell, incumbent; James H. Morrison, Hammond, and Jesse Bankston, Mount Hermon.

Another withdrawal was that of W. B. Clarke of Monroe, candidate for member of the board of governors of the State Bar of Louisiana from the fifth congressional district. His withdrawal left K. K. Kennedy unopposed.

OVERTON GRATIFIED BY COMMITTEE'S ACTION

ALEXANDRIA, La., July 30.—(AP)—Senator John H. Overton expressed gratification today at the action of the Democratic state central committee in unanimously declaring him the nominee of the Democratic party for United States senator without opposition.

He said, "It is very gratifying to me to be the recipient of a second nomination to this high office. I wish to express my appreciation to my friends who have volunteered their support in case I should have an opponent. It is my purpose to continue to serve our state and nation to the full extent of my ability."

George Weinberg and Schoenhaus pleaded guilty and were paroled to await disposition of their cases. Hines and Weintraub are at liberty in $20,000 bail each. Cooney, Wolf and Girsch are fugitives, while "Bo" Weinberg is believed to have been slain.

MAN FINED FOR DRIVING AN ELEPHANT WHILE DRUNK

COLOMBO, Ceylon.—(AP)—An elephant driver was fined $1.58 here recently for being drunk in charge of an elephant.

A crowd was watching an elephant procession in which the intoxicated native was riding. Suddenly he swerved his giant mount and started charging the spectators.

He nearly precipitated a riot before he finally was dragged down and turned over to the police.

army troops for intensive military training.

It is expected that by Tuesday nearly 30,000 officers and men of the third army will be concentrated in DeSoto national forest, north of Biloxi, and will be divided into a "Brown" and "Blue" army for invasion and defense respectively.

There will be utilized thousands of soldiers equipped with rifles, machine guns, artillery, tanks, field kitchens, ambulances and all paraphernalia of modern warfare.

BIG TREATY WITH RUSSIA IN MAKING

country, in the year covered by the pact, American goods to the value of at least $40,000,000. Statistics show that by August 3 their purchases will have exceeded this figure considerably.

Consequently, there is a chance that the $40,000,000 figure will be stepped up in the new agreement.

Some difficulty is being experienced by the negotiators regarding the understanding on Soviet coal exports to the United States. The previous excise tax of $2 a ton has been lifted with regard to the Soviets, but their exports were "quoted" at a maximum of 400,000 tons.

However, an American producer has challenged the right of the Soviets to the tax exemption, and the question still has to be settled by the treasury department.

Trade with the Soviets has increased under the commercial treaties negotiated annually with that country.

In the three calendar years 1932 to 1934, inclusive, the Soviet Union bought from the United States an annual average of only $12,000,000 worth of goods.

By the first agreement of 1935, however, the Soviets agreed to buy $30,000,000 worth of products here. Actually they exceeded the minimum. The same figure of $30,000,000 was retained in the 1936 agreement and was exceeded by an even larger sum than in 1935.

In the 1937 agreement the minimum was increased to $40,000,000.

The Soviets' purchases from the United States consist in great part of machine tools. Raw materials they have in plenty.

A LOT OF TALK

WACO, Tex.—(AP)—What to do with all the cups won by his forensic teams is becoming a problem for Glenn R. Capp, forensic director at Baylor university. In the 1937-38 season his squads in debating, oratory, extemporaneous speaking, poetry reading, after dinner and radio speaking won 35 loving cups and 42 medals. The Baylorites won 257 of the 346 debates they entered.

The Community Chest

A Community Chest for the Twin Cities was definitely assured last week when a committee of 15 well known men and women, appointed by the Chamber of Commerce, met and perfected a permanent organization.

The enthusiasm shown by the committee indicates that the first Community Chest here will be eminently successful. It will be a big job, but every member of the group expressed a willingness to devote his or her time and thought to working out the many details incidental to the staging of the charity drive here next fall.

The selection of W. R. Hatchell as president of the Community Chest was a wise choice. Mr. Hatchell, a successful West Monroe merchant, has the enthusiasm and the energy that, with the co-operation of his able associates, is an assurance that the first drive will be efficiently directed.

There has been a definite need for a Community Chest here for several years.

The objects of the Chest are to assist and strengthen the charitable and philanthropic organizations of the two cities, to procure, allocate and disburse funds for and to such organizations, to promote co-operation, efficiency and economy in their operation and to develop and foster community responsibility for their support.

Practically all cities of the size of Monroe and West Monroe use the Chest method of financing public agencies. The chief argument in its favor is the elimination of numerous drives throughout the year. Under the Community Chest plan, one concerted campaign is held annually to raise funds for the various participating charities. Thus the duplication of solicitations is practically eliminated and considerable time is saved both by the solicitors and the donors. Too, it has been found that more money can be raised in one intensive drive than through the out-moded method of permitting each agency to conduct its own campaign.

A survey of 25 cities of population between 25,000 and 50,000, conducted by George D. Holland, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, showed that in every instance a larger total of funds was raised by the Chest than under the old method. The smallest increase was 10 per cent, and the largest was 100 per cent. That alone is a clinching argument in favor of the Community Chest plan.

All charitable and philanthropic agencies of Monroe and West Monroe are invited to participate in the Chest. It is a community project that is designed to concentrate the efforts of its organization for the good of all.

Those who have been entrusted with the task of setting up an efficient organization have already demonstrated a willingness to exert every effort to make the first Community Chest a complete success. The co-operation of the entire citizenship of the Twin Cities is earnestly solicited.

NATIONAL TRANSFUSION

To many who were born and brought up in this country, the priceless privilege of American citizenship is a commonplace. We don't think about it, we take little interest in politics, we exercise little of that eternal vigilance which is the price of liberty.

But it is not so to the 2,016 shining-eyed people who gathered at Geauga lake near Cleveland the other day to receive diplomas certifying their new-won citizenship. They were foreign-born residents of the Cleveland neighborhood, and their pride in their new status shone in every face as the diplomas were presented. The enthusiasm, the evident devotion of the new citizens gave good assurance that no foreign propaganda, "once a Ruritanian, always a Ruritanian," is going to touch them.

America welcomes such new citizens. In them, American ideals, freshly taught and espoused anew, often have their brightest reincarnation.

For in Cleveland this process is not left to a hit-or-miss formality in a grubby courtroom. A citizens' bureau, headed by prominent citizens, offers constant advice and help to aliens in problems of naturalization. It teaches and leads, and makes of the Americanization process a dignified and beautiful thing.

MAN'S ESTATE

It's great to watch the young folks coming up—folks young in years or young in social development. But you can't help feeling just a little sad sometimes.

Consider the Moros, the old pirates, head-hunters and runners-amok of the Sulu archipelago. The Moros, you discover from a descriptive news report, are coming of age almost in the twinkling of an eye. They're mild as milk—practically—and fools for plumbing and conferences and such.

They turn out their razor-edged krises now not for cranium-lopping but for sale, at a fancy fee, to the tourists. Blood-thirsty benders have given way to a Saturday night trip to the movies to see Gloria Gladeye and Bertram Beargrease mug it. The only danger of trekking into the jungles these days is that you run into so many cigaret-moochers. A veteran judge of the territory says whereas most of his cases used to be banditry and homicide, they're now squabbles over property boundaries and rights-of-way.

But let's not be too quick to condemn—they'll probably turn out all right in the end.

THEY CALL IT POLITICS

By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—Most important news we have heard in weeks is that a blue book of Yale, Harvard and Princeton students is being compiled, listing their ancestry back even unto the fourth generation.

This bit of information was contained in a society column of a Washington paper and the society editor (bless her heart) was more concerned about the value the thing would have for social purposes than for the general government.

But we are always and incessantly concerned about the welfare of the general government. If the compilation has value for debutantes or their mamas in making out party lists, all very well. She thought it would have. None of the "old grads" will be listed, just the youngsters presently in school who will be available for stag line duty next fall.

Only The Best

For instance, imagine the swank of a debutante who could say that she had at her party only third and fourth generation Yales, Harvards or Princetons. None of these newcoming second generationers.

Of course, some of these third or fourth generation back-trackings may reach clear across the Atlantic ocean—or the Pacific. That naturally would be taken into account.

Fourth generations might come at a premium—that is, if they could trace their four generations back step by step from scholar, to statesman, to social leader. They might hold themselves out for only the toppest of the parties, while the third generations could be only slightly less withholding. Seconds and first, of course, could be had for hotdog-and-beer affairs.

But again, we are concerned not with the social value of this blue book but its governmental value. Imagine having a government bureau staffed with Yales backed up by four generations of prime ancestry. Or more exciting still, four generations of liberals.

Liberal 'Way Back

Of course a liberal four generations back would be a rugged individualist compared with his great-grandson but no one could doubt he was for the New Deal before 1932. That would have to be taken for granted.

Again, suppose the government takes a swing to the right. A fourth generation conservative, his record established beyond question, could command premium attention. And added to that, he would be a Yaler, or a Harvard man, or a Princetonian.

Of course the thing has drawbacks. A fourth generation Harvard liberal might be discovered to have three generations of conservatives in his background, or maybe even one out of three, as a sort of "bar sinister." He might rue the day that he ever was listed in the H. Y. P. blue book.

At this point we might mention a worry felt by the society editor. She suspected that the book might never have any real value in Washington. There are so many stag lines between Harvard, Princeton and Yale, far to the east, and Washington, that mighty few ever would trickle through to here.

THE OPPORTUNITY TO LIVE

By BRUCE CATTON

The public playground is so common a feature of the modern city that it is hard to realize that it is still a fairly youthful institution. It is actually only a little more than one generation since the first playgrounds were established.

This is called to mind by the fact that July 28 has been designated "National Joseph Lee day" by the National Recreation association, with the indorsement of President Roosevelt. And if you don't know who Joseph Lee was, it might be worth your while to find out.

Joseph Lee was a wealthy Bostonian, the son of an aristocratic banker. Graduating from Harvard in the 1880's, he decided that he had all the money he would ever need and that he would devote his life and his fortune to the promotion of play and recreation.

He came to this decision in an odd way. He read in his paper, one day, about a group of Boston boys being arrested for playing in the streets. It was an every-day occurrence, of course; but, as he said, "To me it was as if those boys had been arrested for living." So he decided to do something about it.

Do something he did; and that "something" was a driving, unceasing campaign to persuade people to provide play space for children. He made an elaborate study of the causes of juvenile delinquency, helped develop a model playground in Boston, helped to organize the Playground Association of America, devoted years of his life to its service—and, all in all, gave some $360,000 of his own money to further the cause.

It would be a great exaggeration, of course, to say that Joseph Lee was solely responsible for the development of the public playground. But it is indisputable that he was responsible in a very large part, and that a great many thousands of children have had decent room to play in which they would not have had if Joseph Lee had not lived.

We don't build monuments to men like that, or devote whole chapters of our history books to them. It might be a good thing if we did. For Joseph Lee's capacity for getting indignant over wrongs which were done—not to himself, but to other people—is one of the finest and most valuable traits the human race develops.

The industrial city of the late nineteenth century, with few parks and no playgrounds, with mile on mile of congested housing, inflicted a very great wrong on millions of people. It wasn't, directly, any of Joseph Lee's business; but because he had that priceless capacity for getting mad over somebody else's troubles, he made it his business—and did a great deal to right the wrong.

There are still, heaven knows, plenty of similar wrongs to be righted. They will get righted only as we develop and exercise that same capacity for selfless indignation.

A BOOK REVIEW

WRITER FEELS SCIENCE PRESUPPOSES IT

A few years ago a clever Englishman with a flair for combining deep-dish mathematics, metaphysics and sprightly humor all in one package came out quietly with a new theory of time.

"Quietly" is apparently the word, because the general reading public hardly heard of the man. But some of the general public's favorite authors did. Among them was J. B. Priestley. His most recent book was to a very large degree inspired and conditioned by the clever Englishman's theory.

Not to keep you in suspense any longer—the Englishman in question is J. W. Dunne, and he is out now with a new book, "The Serial Universe," which amplifies and extends his theory.

Now Mr. Dunne is no man to hesitate at biting off a large mouthful. In this book he goes back to his previous discussions of fourth- and fifth-dimension time, proceeds to demonstrate—by an involved, technical and completely baffling mathematical process which left this reviewer lashed to the mast—that science itself is based on the supposition that there is an immortal mind which exists independently of mundane time and space limitations. He then asserts that what he offers is an irrefutable proof of the immortality of the human soul.

If all of this is a large order, understanding Mr. Dunne's argument is, for the lay reader, apt to be even larger. This reviewer made extremely heavy weather of it. Yet he found the book immensely exciting. If Mr. Dunne should happen to be correct, something rather epoch-making is in the process of discovery.

Human Side Of The News

By EDWIN C. HILL

(Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

By the end of the fiscal year in 1939, Uncle Sam will be 40 billion dollars in the red, 20 billion of the debt having been incurred in the past five and a half years of the New Deal. It's getting so that we speak of a billion as glibly as our grandfathers mentioned a hundred thousand. Well, let's take a few minutes to examine just what a billion means—how much it really is in units of any sort, in money, matches or minutes. You might be surprised.

A billion is one thousand times a million. But that still is meaningless, actually. Let's get down to cases. Suppose you started to count 200 units a minute. An hour will produce 12,000, a day 288,000 and a year 105,120,000.

Suppose that Adam (with Eve keeping check) had begun to count at the beginning of his existence, had continued to count and was still counting 200 a minute, he would not, even now, according to the age of the earth as suggested by Genesis, have arrived at anything like a billion. For, to count a billion, he would require 9,512 years, 34 days, 5 hours and 20 minutes.

Now supposing we were to allow the poor counter 12 hours daily for rest, eating, and sleeping—he would need 19,024 years, 68 days, 10 hours and 40 minutes. Since the birth of Christ, only a little more than a billion minutes have passed into history.

If a railway train running at the rate of a mile a minute had been, at the dawn of the Christian era, started around the earth on a straight track, its object being to run a billion miles without stop, it would have been necessary for that train to circle the earth 40,000 times, and it would not have come to the end of its journey until nearly New Years Eve, 1628—16 centuries after Christ was born and eight years after the Mayflower landed at Plymouth Rock.

During its frantic flight it would have seen the Savior live and die; Rome and its marvelous grandeur would have risen, flourished and decayed; Britain would have been discovered and vanquished by the hosts of Caesar and London and Paris would have been built; kings and emperors would have reigned and great wars have been fought.

Throughout the Middle Ages upon which history sheds but a faint candle-light the rushing train would have sped on its seemingly interminable journey; Christopher Columbus would have been born and America discovered, and not until nearly two centuries after that great western world has been added to the map would the engine-driver have closed the throttle and brought his machine to a full stop at his destination.

The wealth of Mr. John D. Rockefeller, the richest man in the world, was computed at a billion dollars. Let us assume this to be correct, and then imagine the world's richest man sitting down to count his "pile," in suppositious silver dollars.

If he had the entire sum before him and could handle it as rapidly as the ticks of a watch, about $5 to the second—it would take him, working day and night, six years and four months to finish his pleasant task. Of course, if he worked on a union labor scale he would be just 19 years on the job. In order to have coined it for this pastime the mint would have had to work making dollars for 32 years without pause day or night.

A pile of a thousand million dollars stacked as coins are ordinarily stacked would reach a height of 248 miles. Set edge to edge, these dollars would form a glittering ribbon stretching from New York City to Salt Lake City. To coin the dollars would require the use of 31,250 tons of silver and to haul it to the mint 2,083 freight cars, drawn by 104 locomotives, would be necessary, while the combined length of trains carrying it would be more than 14 miles.

At the ordinary valuation of agricultural lands in the best farming sections of the country a billionaire could buy a farm as large as the combined area of the states of New York, New Hampshire and Massachusetts. If he could buy land at $1 an acre he could purchase all the territory of the United States east of Montana, Arizona, Wyoming, Colorado, Texas and New Mexico.

In the ordinary box of safety matches there are 50 sticks. If a consignment of one billion matches were ordered from the manufacturer, the boxes in which they were packed would make a pile 158 miles in height. Packed in freight cars, they would fill 12 to the roofs. To box them alone, not to take into consideration the labor of making and labeling the boxes, 1,000 girls would be kept busy a month, working in eight-hour shifts.

And we are 40 billion in the red and going deeper into debt by 4 billion a year!

MIND YOUR MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. May you hold a piece of bread in the palm of your hand while buttering it?
2. If you have a house guest may you ask to take her to a tea or reception?
3. May newcomers in town be the first to extend invitations to older residents?
4. At which side of a person at table are the beverages placed, filled and removed?
5. When a maid or waiter is serving a seated person, in which hand does he hold the dish of food?

What would you do if—

You have acquired definite dislikes for a variety of foods?

(a) Learn to tolerate them?
(b) Make yourself acquire a liking for them?
(c) Cater to your whim?

Answers

1. No. Put it on edge of plate.
2. Yes—where numbers do not count.
3. No.
4. Right.
5. Hand farther from the person.

Best "What Would You Do" solution—(b) if possible—otherwise (a).

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

BY ALICIA HART

This is the ideal time to make up your mind that you really are going to do something about yourself. Between now and the middle of September while your social life is pretty informal and nobody pays much attention to what anyone else is doing anyway, you could very well concentrate on improving your appearance and greet fall with a new outlook and a new look about you.

For example, during hot weather, it's much simpler to stick to a diet. You undoubtedly are getting a reasonable amount of outdoor exercise anyway. So if you try to get even more and, in addition, do special reducing exercises for fifteen minutes once a day, you'll be able, quite effortlessly, to lose a little weight—maybe enough so that your new fall dresses can be size 16 instead of 18.

If you're looking forward to wearing an upswept coiffure later on, why not let the ends at the back grow this month? You probably have great difficulty keeping your hear neat and tidy even now—what with swimming, tennis and all. And the fact that ends are at straggling length probably won't detract very much from the way you look these days.

If your nails are in pretty bad condition, you might use one of the comparatively new creamy white, waxy bases instead of regular polish for a few weeks. Many smart women are wearing white polish on their suntanned hands. A coating of waxy base will achieve much the same effect. But it, unlike polish, will protect your nails and encourage their growth.

Also, you could spend some time experimenting with makeup—learning to get rouge, lipstick and powder on artistically to dramatize your best features. And a great deal of time studying your type, deciding what kind of clothes are most flattering and resolving not to make a single error when you assemble your fall wardrobe this year. Plan your wardrobe ever so carefully before you buy a single thing, then don't change plans in the middle of the shopping orgy.

YOUR HEALTH

By Dr. Morris Fishbein

(Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine)

Just as scientific medicine is learning today that it is impossible to separate the human being from his heredity and environment, so also we learn that animals which live with man and on which man lives are extremely important in relationship to human health.

Such diseases as undulant fever, tularemia, plague, malaria, hookworm, and other infestations of man are examples of conditions in animals which may be communicated to the human being.

In the study of animals and animal diseases, the veterinary of today is a medical specialist. A good modern education for a veterinary includes high school graduation, at least one year of college education, and four years of education in a veterinary medical school before he is equipped to practice.

Many veterinaries then enter the service of the government in the bureau of animal industry or of the various states. In such a position they aid human beings by inspecting animals which are used for food or which provide food materials.

Today the veterinary is a specialist not only in certain types of animals, but also in certain types of disease as they affect animals.

The veterinary profession seems to be divided into two groups—one which is the inspecting group associated with the function of disease prevention that has already been mentioned, and the other a highly specialized profession which is concerned with the care of small animals kept largely as pets.

These latter practitioners are in many instances associated with hospitals for the care of pets, and many of them practice veterinary medicine exactly as it is practiced by the leading specialists in the human medical field.

The modern veterinary makes on the sick dog or cat all of the same tests that are used by the physician in making diagnoses of diseases in human beings. The X-ray is used. There are tests of the blood and of the urine and all of the other secretions and excretions of the body. Such services are expensive, but the owner of a race horse, representing a cash investment of tens of thousands of dollars, or the proud owner of a prize Pekinese, will not hesitate to pay what is necessary to secure individualized specialistic attention for the sick pet.

Indeed, the veterinary will insist on individualization of his patient for treatment, exactly as the modern physician insists on individualization of his patient in order to secure the best possible results.

While flying in the stratosphere, it is possible to look straight into the sun without discomfort, because of the absence of matter which will refract the sun's rays.

According to an old city ordinance in Cleburne, Tex., a horse is a vehicle and must wear head and tail lights when traveling after dark.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON—Mr. Herbert Hoover's decision to make a series of politician speeches in September coincides with a wave of optimism among friends of the former president who hope to make him the Republican nominee in 1940.

These friends find it rather easy to tick off other G. O. P. aspirants one by one, winding up with the conclusion that Hoover looks stronger each month and that the trend of events and Republican political settlement definitely favor him.

Chiefly they are encouraged by the fact that the party and its constituents indicate a revived trend toward conservative candidates and conservative policies. They point to the Republican primary in Pennsylvania where the relatively liberal Gifford Pinchot was badly beaten by the conservative candidate for governor, Judge Arthur H. James, and that in Iowa, where arch-conservative Lester Dickinson was nominated for senator.

If public announcement that Hoover's decision to take the stump was in response to increasing pressure from the Republican rank and file—which was said to want him to unify the party and counteract President Roosevelt's pre-election swing—is to be taken at face value, the opinion of Hoover's friends would seem to some extent well-grounded.

Hoover will be out in front as the G. O. P.'s big spokesman, unless other party presidential aspirants can figure out how to dim his light. If no other Republican shows up as an oratorical big gun in the congressional campaign, Hoover is sure to receive much credit for any large Republican gains achieved in the November election.

Hoover And Wheeler?

Some of Mr. Hoover's friends even are beginning to suggest that Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat, of Montana, would make an ideal running mate for the sage of Palo Alto.

It doesn't appear that any of them have actually summoned up the courage to suggest this idea about the vice-presidency to Wheeler himself. Most of those who know Wheeler doubt whether he considers himself anything less than presidential timber—and many Republicans as well as many anti-Roosevelt Democrats feel the same way about it.

Garner And Farley?

Both friends and foes of Vice-President John Nance Garner have arrived at the conclusion that the salty, white-haired Texan is hankering to succeed Roosevelt in the White House. This story first stemmed from senators friendly to Garner who are wont to gather in late afternoons at Garner's office when congress is in session. The vice-president is so chary about talking to newspaper men that these senators are about the only source of information as to what he really thinks.

More recently the belief began to spread around the White House and upper reaches of the New Deal that Garner had been bitten by the presidential tick. And now friends of RFC Chairman Jesse Jones, who was bitten long ago—and hard—profess to see unmistakable signs of it and are expressing themselves right sourly.

Current talk of a Garner-Farley ticket enanates from the Garner side of the fence and makes no hit at all with the friends of Farley, although the postmaster general and the vice-president are on very good terms.

Politics In Georgia

Anti-New Deal Democrats in Georgia are beginning to express doubt as to whether Senator Walter F. George or former Governor Eugene Talmadge, campaigning against the senator, has the best chance to beat United States District Attorney Lawrence Camp, New Deal candidate for George's seat.

On the ground that strong presidential endorsement of Camp as against George may cause nomination of Talmadge, George supporters have sent overtures to Roosevelt urging him to abandon his plans for anti-George, pro-Camp speeches in the state. Thus for the answer has been that a Roosevelt endorsement of Camp is much more likely to nominate Camp than the anti-New Deal Talmadge. Georgia New Dealers are beginning to see visions of a Camp landslide.

STAMP NEWS

By I. S. Klein

No happier crew ever sighted land than the weary little band of 88 men which first glimpsed the shores of the New World in the dim morning hours of Oct. 12, 1492.

At dawn Columbus landed, richly clad, bearing the royal banner of Spain. He was accompanied by the brothers Pinzon and a great part of the crew.

Here was a dramatically historic picture. When they had all "given thanks to God, kneeling upon the shore, and kissed the ground with tears of joy, for the great mercy received," Columbus officially named the island San Salvador and took solemn possession of it. Then those who had shown themselves doubtful and mutinous during the long voyage sought the leader's pardon, and, weeping, prostrated themselves at his feet.

The landing of Columbus is shown below on a stamp of the U. S. series of 1869, after a painting by Vanderlyn in the Capitol at Washington. The stamp, 15-cent, Prussian blue and light brown, is reproduced slightly more than one and one-half times actual size.

This Man, Joe Murray

BY WILLIAM CORCORAN Copyright, 1938, by William Corcoran; NEA Service, Inc.

CHAPTER I

I want to tell this story. It is a love-story, but is not about a girl and a man and the conflict between them until they finally give up and try to pull together, which most love stories are. This is about love itself, and that makes it an unusual story.

What is love? You'd think anybody would know, with all the talk there is about it. They don't. I think I have an idea, and that is why I tell this story.

It begins with Joe Murray, a young man, a very young man just starting to work and spending his first earned money on the girls. I guess that was the main reason why Joe went to work as soon as he could; that and the simple fact that every young man in Joe's walk of life does the same. Joe was born on Simplon street on the south side of the city in a fourth-floor railroad tenement flat that gave shelter to the elder Murrays and seven children for many years. As a little fellow Joe played with the little girls on the other landings; as a boy he tormented the waspish young girls on the block; as a young buck after his voice changed and he began to shave he investigated the possibilities in the next block and the one beyond. So when he became a young man, rather handsome with his 19 years, a lithe, smooth dancer and a smart, glib talker, with all of the self-confidence that comes from bringing down a pay envelope almost equal to the old man's—it was logical enough that Joe should blow town and try his luck around the country wherever there were plenty of jobs and money and people . . . and girls.

This may sound as if Joe were a mere brainless gam chaser, out for what he could get and no regard for where or how. That isn't true. Joe had brains, and he wasn't mean or underhanded. It is true that he was out for what he could get, so to speak, but he was not the kind to think twice about what he gave in return, and he gave a good deal, all he had at the time, you might say. He was never cunning or insinuating, and he could forget a lot. If a girl chose to be insulted by his advances, which had in them all the nerve and gay good humor in the world . . . why then she knew where she stood, at least, and nobody was putting anything over on her! Joe never cared. There'd be another along in a moment, and she would choose not to be insulted, laughing with him at his audacity instead, and she and Joe would play together and have themselves a swell time and no harm done. And meantime the first one would sit at home thinking bitterness about Joe and all the young men insulting girls, and she'd have herself a perfectly terrible time, lonesome as the very devil, and nobody to care a damn about it but herself.

Why do the young people all over the land leave their homes and go to other towns, preferably where there are the most people . . . good girls, for instance: ambitious girls, home girls, factory girls, college girls and society girls? They all go for the same reason, approximately, as Joe. They want to meet new men, lots of men, to play with them and learn them and learn from them. They're made the same, all boys and girls, fundamentally . . . only they aren't always equally equipped with good looks and brains and a sense of humor and the ability to take life as it comes. Which seems unfair, yet somehow it works out in the end, with most everybody mated up for good with someone no better or worse off. The main thing behind it all is not to be alone. To be alone is to be queer and out of life and the running, and the young people know that better than anybody.

Joe was not very long alone if he could help it, any time, anywhere.

The Murrays at home heard from Joe all over the nation, usually from some town where the smokestacks were thick and jobs plentiful. Not until he reached Sparksburg did he settle. He explained only that he had a job, liked the town, lived in a clean boarding house where most of the people were Poles, and thought he'd stick a while; he was tired of traveling. The old man mulled over that: section hand on the railroad didn't seem much of a job to him, who was an expert on a lathe and a good peg above a pick and shovel job.

Old Mrs. Murray, sharp and shrewd for all her partiality, snorted and said, "It's happened. I've been waiting for it. He's just the one! They've been chasing him since he could walk; you'd think he'd know enough."

"Enough what" growled the old man.

"What do you think's keeping him in that cutlandish part of the country but some girl?" The old woman stared at her man, and a grim satisfaction came to her. "Well, anyway, whoever she is, she won't have him long. The Murray strain is strong in him. He'll blow, as he calls it, soon enough." But the grim satisfaction was short-lived. "I only hope she's old enough so that the police don't have to pick up and go after him."

The old man quietly gathered up his pipe and newspaper and walked to another part of the house. Joe and the girls was a sore subject with the old woman . . . and yet he knew she got a lot of satisfaction out of it, like any vain mother at all. The last he heard was her indignant snort that gave it all away, "A Polack! Now wouldn't he?"

It was much to his own surprise that Joe was settled down in Sparksburg, which had no particular appeal after the first few days. It was a town of factories and mills and railroads with a lively main street and downtown district and a lake where everybody went summer days not far in the mountains. There were plenty of girls in those factories, gay independent girls who willingly rode out to the lake to dance and come home when they felt like it . . . which was late when they were with Joe, for they were usually no more anxious to go home than he was. Still, there were other towns with plenty of girls. The difference in Sparksburg was Helen.

Now don't think this is turning out to be the usual love story after all. I could turn it that way if I wanted, keeping Helen and Joe apart, setting her family against him or having him get in bad with the police quite innocently, and correcting everything in the end and marrying them off. But that would be distorting the fact, because all this actually once happened. I'll even tell in advance that Joe never married Helen. He never even "touched" her, as he would put it himself. Not that it didn't occur to him; quite the contrary. But for once he only dreamed, waiting, and the dream was astonishingly sweet. Joe, you see, was head over heels in love.

Helen was the only daughter in Joe's boarding house. She was, as orders are required for the good of all concerned. These things were not conceit in him, as unthinking young women so often suppose of men. It is the same among animals, where a strong, dependable male is needed for the protection of the young, and where the females atch the young bucks prove themselves by fighting and domineering, and give their favor to the best of the lot, being very sensible in their choice indeed.

So with the coming of these desires in him, the little-boy pleasures of wandering without check and playing but of the imagination—was to be restricted to one very special type: those few, rare women he would meet who would have something of Helen in their eyes or their hands or their fine yellow hair. Any man can tell you about that if he will: the first love that is never entirely forgotten, however dim with the years.

The things the two young ones talked about and the plans they made do not matter much here. Everyone living has talked them and planned them at one time, without calculation

Illustration by E. H. Gunder.

There were plenty of girls. The difference in Sparksburg was Helen.

the Irish and Germans and Yankees put it, a Polack. That is a condescending word, but you couldn't condescend to Helen. The Poles are a clean and thrifty and gentle people, with remarkable beauty in their breed, and Helen at 17 was all of that beauty in flower. But these are only words; you'd have to know, to have seen the flowering of Polish beauty in a drab, bleached, colorless mill town setting to know what I'm talking about.

I don't want to go too deeply into the subject of Helen. I don't care to think too much about it. But this is life I am talking about, not something in a love story. They must have made a pitcure when they were together: Joe tall and dark and straightly handsome, with a crisp sort of jaw and eyes, half way between a rake and a gallant in his hardboiled, likeable way; and Helen, tall and slender and at the same time round and blooming of breast, beautifully curved of body, fair and clean of skin and hair and so clear and blue of eye. Neither was a fashion plate, but they were healthy and handsome and young. Clothes and jewels and fashionable polish are in the way if you have those three things, as all the great painters have made plain.

Then besides all that, there was this: the two of them were in love for the first time in their lives.

CHAPTER II

Helen had been kissed before, but with little meaning in it; now it became very important. It was terribly important to Joe. It was something that even scared him a little in its strange, intense importance, which is one of the curious things that being in love does to a young man who has taken his kisses like the air he breathes.

Joe could not understand it or explain what had happened to him. And a man can make a fool of himself trying to explain how such things came to happen to another man, unless he be a doctor able to talk of idealization and fixations and conditionings and complexes. It is largely a matter of words: the story tellers have one set of words, the doctors another, and the average man has none. But what happened to Joe was a number of things: he was growing up, he had fought and loved and traveled and adventured and proved himself a man, and he had come to the time when, that question settled, he must prove further things—his substance as a grown man, his ability to harbor and cherish others beside himself in his ample strength, his power to take responsibility, make decisions affecting others, and even give orders where without stint gradually lost their novelty and satisfaction, and it was easy to settle down. Besides, he had been away from home long enough to get a clearer view of the world, and he was beginning to be lonesome. He was ready now, and nature did the rest. Nature provided a Helen for him. One Helen or another did not matter much, within certain bounds of Joe's broad taste and inclination. Except that forever after Joe's dream and delight in women—the delight not of the body or cunning or anything to set them apart. Joe gave her his pay to save, and dropped his extravagant habits entirely. Helen took a sudden interest in the prices of things: small houses and furniture and bedding, and being of a practical people, in the cost of having babies and caring for them. She made up a frugal warm lunch for him in the middle of the day, instead of filling his dinner pail cold in the early morning as she did for the other boarders, and she walked down the mile of track on his section to be with him while he ate it.

All that spring the two of them were together; they sat on the porch evenings with the others of the house, all of them enjoying each other's presence, and nobody feeling like an intruder because they left the two of them alone early. Most of them started to bed about 10 o'clock, and Joe and Helen stayed there later.

Or if they didn't sit on the porch, they went for a walk, window shopping on North Main street or strolling out to Spring Creek, where the town had set aside ground for a park. Or on Saturdays they went to a picture or to a dance somewhere in the settlement. Both of them had friends, but it was natural that they did these things mostly just together. They were waiting, and so was all their house.

I know this doesn't seem like much of a story, all about two youngsters wanting to get married and nothing in the world to stop them. I know there is no conflict for you to follow, wondering who will win out. That is why I can't tell it like an ordinary love story, with dialog and scenes and pieces that fall together in a pattern that comes clear only at the end. Their dialog has nothing at all to do with this story, which I have told you is about love. They talked about themselves.

For instance, Joe coming home in the late afternoon and walking in the kitchen door. Everybody used the kitchen door in working clothes; the front door only after they cleaned up. He usually found Helen standing over the coal range just inside the door, watching a great pot of stew with Polish trimmings that the old lady had put on a couple of hours before, or testing steaming potatoes or something similar, her color high with the heat and her eyes bright with the moment. She could watch out the door from there. And Joe could stop in the door, leaning against the door jamb, out of the way of the kitchen activity and yet in the midst of it. He always smiled as if he'd just told the boss exactly what to do or a cop where to go, looking conceited as could be, yet really not.

"Lo, kid!"

Then, always quite taken by surprise at her work and a little jauntily proud of herself she smiled a big, blue-eyed, radiant blonde smile. "Home again, Joe?"

"Right side up, kid." He eyed the stove, sniffing hungrily. "Stew? You make it?"

"It's mama's stew, Joe. Hungry?"

He drawled, "We'll have to take the ma along, Polack. I think it's the stew has got me. If she was free I'd marry her instead."

Across the kitchen the slight, wiry mother colored with pleasure and made disapproving, deprecating sounds. Helen laughed a little and said, "Irish! You wait. I'll make you stews, and you'll like them."

Joe looked at her, his brown eyes gleaming and narrowing a little, his lean lips quivering slightly with malicious and audacious words. Then, passing inside to go upstairs and giving her a small, make-believe punch on the arm or in the side that passed her being hardboiled with her, he said, "Lots of things I like, Polack. I'm only waiting."

That was the way Joe and Helen were. That was one way. There were others: there was the way when they had danced a long time, close and full of music and moving like one inseparable living body, or seen a moving picture that put them in a mood, or after a walk in Spring Creek park when the time of the year and the smell of the warm earth and the grass and the thick dark leaves was strong in their blood. Then moments came when their hearts pounded in them out of hand, and there were no words to say, though both understood well enough and were equally firm in their love for each other and in their impatient plans. Then Joe was oddly a little brutal and tender, and she was a little wild with a kind of love and anguish, and they both thought for instants at a time they could have hurt one another gladly, though they never did.

Sometimes Joe wondered broodingly yet never moodily why it was he waited so, who never had before, exactly speaking. He was neither very religious minded nor tolerant of those who did not. And yet he knew well enough: it was a kind of payment you laid on the line with life; life gave you just so much as you paid for, and he wanted all there was of Helen, without stint. All of life lay ahead. It was a thought more heady than whisky, and worth the payment easily. Many thoughts Joe entertained, such as that one, were more clear in the mind than they could be in speech—were a man in the habit of discussing such things, which he was not.

And that was the way they were. And time passed, and they were together as much as possible, and their roots grew closer together, deeper and deeper, growing away from loneliness forever. They were daily the more in love.

I wish I could stop right there. This would not be a real story and no one would listen to it, but I wish I could leave them right there—growing away from loneliness forever.

But I have nothing to do with it. I've got to go on, just as their lives went on without me. You may not believe it, and you may think all story telling is like something done with mirrors on a stage, but all this actually happened and I'm only putting it down in a logical order of events because no one ever did before and I think there's a significance to it all. I'm telling this like a doctor, or a recorder of vital statistics, or a professor explaining the molecules.

As a matter of fact, I am stalling. I dread going on, which no professor of molecules would for a moment. You will understand why.

A tip---Mr. Merchant

Relative to the new Sales Tax, which you are collecting on all sales, have you stopped to consider that, in settling with the State, you could easily figure incorrectly, and pay too much?

Get your short pencil.

Suppose your total sales and tax were $500.00, would you pay the State $5.00? No, you should pay only $4.96.

Suppose your total sales and tax were $10,100.00 would you pay the State $101.00? No, you should pay only $100.00.

And so on.

Divide your total sales and tax by 101 and not by 100

And why?

Because for every one hundred dollars you collect in your business for yourself, you collect one dollar tax for the state. Every one hundred dollars tax and sales therefore has one hundred and one parts, one of which belongs to the State of Louisiana.

A small matter—maybe. But if your sales run into big figures, this difference could save you a substantial sum—"as time goes on"—all of which would look "mighty fine" in a Savings Account with us.

FERRIDAY YOUTH SEES SERVICE AS MARINE

FERRIDAY, La., July 30.—(Special)—Anthony G. Burns, son of Mr. and Mrs. Parnell Burns, Sr., who has been in the United States Marine corps for the past four years, has returned home after receiving an honorable discharge.

While in the marines, young Burns was stationed at Parris island, S. C., and later in China. He was given his discharge from Angell island, San Francisco, Calif. In China, he said, he had experienced many stirring times and said the war between China and Japan was a bloody affair and that he hoped never again to witness anything like it.

"It's good to be back in the United States and I intend to remain here for a long time. China is tough and war is, well, you know what General Sherman said," declared Burns when asked about his experiences.

CALVARY BROTHERHOOD HOLDS WEEKLY MEETING

The Calvary Baptist church Brotherhood met at the church Thursday with 18 present. The meeting was in charge of James E. Venable, first vice-president. Steward A. A. Kemp had charge of the Bible quiz.

Unit No. 3 conducted the program and short discussions were held by Chief Steward Tommy Jones, James E. Venable, Clyde Crider, Lloyd Mercer and Jake Gregory.

The Brotherhood is putting on a special drive to increase interest and membership in this group. All men of the city are invited to attend.

MOTOR VEHICLE LAWS EXPLAINED

State Police Officer Cites Provisions Of New Acts Now In Effect

Sergeant J. G. Grant of the Louisiana state police pointed out yesterday that under act 285, which was passed at the recent session of the legislature and which went into effect last Wednesday, all trucks, regardless of size, operating on the state highways must bear the name and address of the owner, together with the tare or empty weight of the truck, said information to be placed on both sides of the cab.

Act 286 which was also passed at the same time and which went into effect last Wednesday, provides that all trucks, regardless of size, operating on the state highways must display a marker light consisting of three amber-colored lights in a horizontal row, said lights to be placed on top of the cab of the truck, Sergeant Grant pointed out.

Another provision of act 285, the state police officer said, requires that the certificate of registration shall be carried on or in motor vehicles at all times. The said registration must be placed in a holder in an accessible place and in plain view and open to inspection at all times.

The law further requires the manufacturer or dealer or others selling motor vehicles to equip such vehicles with the proper certificate holder. These provisions apply to all kinds of motor vehicles, including private automobiles, trucks and farm trucks.

Sergeant Grant stated that the law requiring all motor vehicles to keep to the right hand side of the highway will be strictly enforced and requested the co-operation of drivers and others in observing this and other provisions of the acts passed by the state legislature recently as well as all other laws pertaining to the safe operation of motor vehicles.

INVITES BIGWIGS

Would you accept an invitation from lovely Evelyn Keyes of the movies? American Legion officials figured most people would. That's why they selected Miss Keyes to make an air tour of the nation and invite the secretary and undersecretary of war and governors and mayors of large cities to the national legion convention in Los Angeles in September. Miss Keyes is pictured holding an invitation.

STATE SESSIONS TO BE HELD HERE

Assembly Of God Churches Will Hold Five-Day Convention

Ministers, delegates and laymen from all over Louisiana and some from other states will arrive in Monroe and West Monroe Monday to attend the opening session of the Louisiana district council of the Assemblies of God, which will be held in the Assembly of God church, Cypress and Crosley streets, West Monroe, August 1 to 5.

Up to a year ago the states of Louisiana and Arkansas were combined in one district when, because of continued growth, it was voted to form a new district comprising only Louisiana. This action was taken at the annual meeting held in Shreveport last September. At that meeting Rev. E. L. Tanner, West Monroe pastor, was elected district superintendent of the new Louisiana district.

The naming of Rev. Tanner was in recognition of his outstanding leadership and organizing ability, he having established the Assembly of God church in West Monroe in 1934, and has served as pastor ever since, building up a strong membership and remodeling having completed the erection of a fine new church edifice.

The first of the daily business sessions will be held Tuesday at 10 a.m. with the pastor, Rev. Tanner, delivering the opening address. Business sessions will be held thereafter at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. daily. Night services will be evangelistic with Rev. E. S. Williams, Springfield, Mo., superintendent of the general council of the Assemblies of God, bringing the message.

Meals will be served delegates in the church basement and lodgings will be furnished in private homes in West Monroe.

REVIVAL CLOSING IN WEST MONROE

Rev. Johnson Will Leave Monday For Oklahoma; Local Sermons Successful

Rev. Ralph E. Johnson and Mrs. Johnson, who have been conducting with the pastor, Rev. C. Kaelea Smith, a series of revival services at the First Methodist church in West Monroe, will close the engagement with two services held there today.

There will be the usual service at 11 a.m. and again at 8 p.m. For the past several weeks there has been a large attendance at all services and many young people will be added to church membership as a result.

The services have been unique in that motion pictures have been displayed and there have been entertainment features that appealed especially to young people.

The Johnsons will leave Monday for Oklahoma, where their next engagement will take place. They are said to be booked ahead for a solid year and wherever they have appeared they have made an unmistakable hit.

On Friday night the entire membership of the West Monroe Kiwanis club attended the revival service in a body.

Rev. Smith stated Saturday that the revival series has been fully up to expectations and that all are well satisfied with results.

Rev. Smith and family will leave Tuesday for a long motor trip to the Pacific coast. They will be absent for a month, during which time they will visit Yellowstone National park, Carlsbad caverns, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Salt Lake City and many other places of note. The pulpit of the First Methodist church will be filled with supplies during the month of August.

MAYOR WILLIAMS STARTS CONSTRUCTION OF HOME

Mayor H. M. Williams, Jr., of West Monroe has started construction of a new residence at 815 LaZarre avenue, which he will occupy with his family as soon as it is completed in the next few weeks.

The house will be large and the site is such as to command a view of the nearby Ouachita river.

RUSTON MERCHANT, CUSTOMER EMPLOY UNUSUAL SYSTEM

RUSTON, La., July 30.—(Special)—If you have both the desire and the "dough" to pay your bills and yet wish neither to settle with cash nor by check, you might try the system used here by a Ruston merchant and a customer of his.

The merchant, whose 30th year of continuous business in Ruston is marked by Sunday, July 31, explains the unique system of finance as follows:

The customer comes to the store and purchases some merchandise costing, say $45. Instead of advising the store-keeper to mail him a statement or send a bill collector out to try and get it, the customer says, "The next time you make a deposit in the bank, just bring the statement along and I'll settle it, too."

So, when sufficient funds again have accumulated for a deposit by the store, the merchant makes out a statement to the customer, listing the amount of the purchase at $45. He then stamps the name of the store on the back of the statement, endorses it and puts it with the rest of the deposit. At the bank, the statement is accepted with the other items in the deposit and recognized as coin of the realm. The bookkeeper in the bank deducts the amount of the bill from the customer's account and the sum is credited to the store's account. That's all there is to it.

The merchant, who prefers the withholding of his name and that of the customer, said:

"This customer has been handling his accounts with us in that manner for a long time. It is the most satisfactory method of business I have experienced in my 30 years as a merchant."

Expert Gives Pointers On How To Prevent Drownings

With 7,000 death-by-drowning warrants signed and sealed, delivery requires only the right combination of sweltering days and careless swimmers, according to the American Red Cross, which has done more than any other single agency to reduce the annual occurrence of water accidents. Last year approximately this number of drownings were reported in the United States.

Berny Oakland, life-saving chairman of the Ouachita parish Red Cross, suggests the following tips to prevent drownings during the summer months:

"Don't dive into water that is muddy or of unknown depth without first exploring the bottom with your feet.

"To keep the feet from sinking when floating, relax elbows and knees and open arms and legs to the sides. As the arms are brought smartly to the side and held there, the legs should be pressed together, forcing the water out. If this is done slowly and smoothly, it is possible to stay afloat for hours.

"When wading breast deep in a stream, go against the current and not with it to avoid being swept into deep holes. If you lose your footing, swim with the current, aiming obliquely for the shore, instead of fighting the stream.

"If you come up beneath a float, hold your breath and open your eyes. There is probably ample air space there, and if you don't give way to panic, you will be all right.

"It is best to wait at least an hour after eating before going into the water, to insure against cramps.

"When boat or canoe overturns, stay with it. Any rowboat has the buoyancy to support its regular load of people whether right side up or bottom up. Bottom up it furnishes a floating air chamber that will retain the weight of all occupants. Right side up and full of water will keep the heads of its passengers above water if they will sit on the floor and not try to rise as the water creeps toward their chins.

"Do not try to show off skill which you do not possess.

"Surf bathing may be safe today and dangerous tomorrow. Consult a life guard about local conditions. If he says a bad surf is developing, don't go out beyond the waves which come up around your knees.

"A non-swimmer can save a drowning person nearby if the former keeps his head. Throw out a ring buoy or a life line, use a rowboat or canoe.

During the summer months, the Red Cross will conduct 14 mammoth aquatic schools in 12 states, each with an enrollment of more than 100 persons. Students range from novices to trained swimmers, and many are men and women responsible for public safety at swimming places. Others are safety directors at parks and waterfronts who have already qualified as experts.

Numbered among Red Cross instructors at the schools are former Olympic swimming champions. The majority are men with an impressive record of Red Cross experience in teaching safety measures found most effective by the organization during nearly a quarter of a century of "waterproofing" America.

SOX BEAT CLARKSDALE TWICE, GAIN 4TH PLACE

The PAYOFF

Ray Schalk points out that managers don't work to correct ball players' fault like they used to.

"Bill McKechnie of the Reds does, but few others," says the famous old White Sox catcher now guiding the Indianapolis club in the most exciting American association race in years.

"When I joined the White Sox in 1911, Charles A. Comiskey had us out at 10 in the morning, drilling us on weak points. He kept me catching high fouls for hours at a time, weeks on end.

"Players were tired by night. They didn't need midnight bedtime rules. They found their beds by themselves and early, too.

"Johnny Vander Meer pitched for Syracuse against my Buffalo club last season. He just threw standing up straight. He let the ball go at the shoulder.

"McKechnie and Lefty Grove of the Red Sox taught Vander Meer this spring to take a deep windup . . . to bring his swinging hands almost to the ground. That loosened up his back muscles, and now, as he comes through with his delivery, he lets the ball go between his waist and knee. This gives him a fast low ball . . . the hardest kind to hit.

"Last year we'd get Vander Meer out of there within three innings. But his fast one sinks now, and the Yankees couldn't get him out of there all day."

PAGE MOST OVERLOOKED

Schalk insists that his 32-year-old Vance Page is the most overlooked pitcher in the minors. Page has won 14 games and lost three to date.

"Page is fast, has a good curve, a fair knuckle ball, control, and knows how to pitch," explains the man whom many consider the greatest backstop of all time. "He's a ball player's pitcher like Ted Lyons and Charley Root."

Schalk expresses the opinion that Lefty Williams would have been the finest pitcher in history had he kept out of the Black Sox scandal.

But if Ray had one game to win . . . had to have it . . . he'd pitch Grover Cleveland Alexander.

"Old Pete would throw about 90 pitches," says the one-time Illinois farm boy who made good in a hurry. "Today the average pitcher throws about 500."

Schalk would reinstate the spitter because it would help the pitchers and they need help. He is going to keep urging its restoration.

SEES BUMPER CROP

Schalk sees a bumper crop of major league material in about two years, and credits this to night baseball.

"It's out of competition with golf and horses," cuts in Leo T. Miller, the indianapolis business manager. In 1932 the minors were so low that only 17 leagues were represented at the winter meeting, and only one, the International, was certain of all its cities. Last winter 37 leagues were in, and this year they're making more money than at any time since 1929.

Semi-professional baseball is booming again.

"Any number of small towns in Indiana have independent teams where they had none five years ago," adds Miller.

And Ray Schalk, who has seen the best in both majors and in two Double A's for a quarter of a century, believes that night baseball is a better show and just as good a game.

BASEBALL'S FUTURE BRIGHT

Lou Fonseca, the old American league batting champion, says that after all there are only a half dozen fundamentals to be mastered in baseball.

He says that these plus natural ability lead to stardom.

Fonseca, the junior loop's ambassador of good will, asserts that there is no potential shortage of major league players. The game is coming back in the colleges and high schools. Next spring University of Pittsburgh for the first time in 16 years will have baseball as a major sport. University of Tennessee is restoring it after an eight-year layoff. The day of a national high school tournament isn't far off.

No less than 40,000 youngsters were reached through Chicago schools last year. They had tryouts at 18 playgrounds. The best boys went to

WAR ADMIRAL WINS HANDICAP

Man O'War's Colt Neck Ahead Of Esposa In Saratoga Feature

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., July 30.—(AP)—War Admiral emerged victorious from one of his hardest races today when he held on like the champion he is to beat William Ziegler, Jr.'s, Esposa by a neck in the mile and a quarter of the 36th Saratoga Handicap.

A wildly excited crowd of more than 12,000 roared out its approval as Samuel D. Riddle's little Man o' War colt, with Charlie Kurtsinger shaking the whip alongside his head, held the 6-year-old Esposa safe in a gruelling, desperate drive through the last furlong.

William Woodward's Isolater, carrying on for the Belair stud after the scratching of Fighting Fox, raced to third money, four lengths behind. Kenneth T. Dawes' Unfailing and the Shandon farm's Burning Star completed the field as named.

The Admiral, 7-to-10 favorite to win his second race in four days, picked up top weight of 130 pounds and raced the distance in 2:06 over a track that had dried out remarkably well under a hot sun but which still was slow. His share of the purse was $7,500, boosting his all-time earnings to $248,975, or only $490 less than the total gleanings of his famous daddy.

In the Wilson Mile last Wednesday, War Admiral had beaten Esposa by almost 10 lengths, Fighting Fox splitting the pair. That was a weight for age event but today the Riddle star was spotting Esposa nine pounds by the scale, the latter carrying 116.

The Admiral again acted up at the gate and finally was placed on the outside of the stalls. Charlie Kurtsinger sent him away in motion but Esposa, also breaking fast with Nick Wall in the saddle, did not let her famous rival get clear until entering the backstretch.

FINAL 36 HOLES OF $7,500 OPEN TOURNEY TODAY

Rain Fails To Dampen Par Smashing Play Of Golf Experts Saturday

By Earl Hilligan

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 30.—(AP)—Johnny Revolta, charter member of big time golf's money winning inner circle, and Lawson Little, consistently threatening to "crash" that select group since leaving the amateur ranks, battled to a draw at the half way point in St. Paul's $7,500 championship today.

Each had 36 hole totals of 137 strokes to lead 66 qualifiers into tomorrow's final grind of 36 holes and a shot at the top money of $1,600. Revolta carded a four under par 68 with some brilliant iron play today to add to his Friday round of 69. The Evanston, Ill., star has won about $5,000 in purses this season and appears "on" the game which once gained him the P. G. A. title.

Little, the San Francisco shot maker who won the British and United States amateur titles in 1934 and 1935, put together five under par nines of 33-34 today to add to his opening round of 70. He has won only three major events since becoming a professional more than two years ago.

Both Revolta and Little played remarkable golf on a course drenched by a day long rain. Little had six birdies and was over par on only one hole. Revolta consistently chipping up for easy putts, whipped par on five holes and only once slipped over regulation figures.

A stroke off the sub-par pace, which saw more than a score of players stay under par 72-72 for the first two rounds, was Frank Stuhler, professional from Jamaica, N. Y., who had a 71, for a 138 total. In the 140 bracket were Art Doering of Chicago, leading amateur at the half way point, Tommy Armour of Chicago and Harry Cooper of Chicopee Falls, Mass., three-time winner of the event. Doering and Cooper had 71s today, with Armour turning in a 72.

Those who had 141 aggregates were Bill Kaiser, Louisville, Ky., Lloyd Mangrum, of Los Angeles and his brother, Ray of Dayton, O., and Pat Sawyer of Birmingham, Mich. Al Krueger of Beloit, Wis., and Bunney Torpey of Dodson, Mo., were in the 142 bracket, with Sam Snead, the defending champion, Ky Laffoon and Tony Manero among those who had 143 totals.

Considering the weather—a heavy rainstorm halted play for a half hour in the morning and then subsided into a drizzle which lasted through late afternoon—scoring was unexpectedly low. Among the leaders, six contestants improved on their scores of Friday's opening 18 holes, played under perfect conditions. Players with 151 totals and under qualified for Sunday's final test.

Virtually the only "big name" golfer in the field who failed to qualify was Walter Hagen, who had a 77-75—152 total.

MOBILE TO BE RECOGNIZED AS DIXIE CLASS B CHAMPS

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 30.—(AP)—The Southeastern league will recognize the Mobile shippers as Dixie class B baseball champions the night of August 24, when President Stuart X. Stephenson presents a pennant to the Seafarers in Hartwell field, Mobile.

Stephenson said a suitable program will be arranged for the pennant raising in the Mobile ball park.

The pennant inscribed "Class B Champions of Dixie," is being presented to Mobile for their victory over the Savannah (Georgia) Sally league champions last year in the "Little Dixie" series.

Mobile trimmed Pensacola in the Southeastern Shaughnessy play-off and then won over Savannah in the inter-league series.

MEDWICK GIVING LOMBARDI RACE

'Ducky Wucky' Closing In On Ernie's Slim Lead In National Batting

NEW YORK, July 30.—(AP)—That Medwick man is in again.

Ernie Lombardi is still leading the National league hitting race, but all he has to do is look over his shoulder and there's Ducky Wucky of the Cardinals coming along with his big war club.

Lombardi, sporting a .358 average in the standings up to and including Friday's games, still has a 13-point bulge on Medwick. But a week ago it was 19. And the week before that Ducky was in third place. And the National league pitching fraternity still insists he's the most dangerous hitter in baseball.

Outside of Medwick's continued rise, the senior circuit hitting race didn't produce much action last week. The mid-season heat probably caught up with the batters. Wally Berger of the Reds held third place with .333; his teammate, Buck McCormick, remained fourth with .331, while Stan Hack of the Cubs broke the monotony by climbing from sixth to a tie for fifth with Ival Goodman of the Reds, each with .328. Hack, collecting 12 hits in 29 chances, boosted his mark eight points.

Trailing these leaders were Buck Jordan of the Phillies, seventh with .324; Arky Vaughan of the Pirates and Babe Phelps, Brooklyn's injured catcher, tied for eighth at .323, and Mel Ott, the Giants' little walloper, tenth with .321.

Only two changes occurred in the leadership of other individual departments of play. McCormick pulled up to a first place tie with Hershel Martin of the Phillies in hitting doubles, each with 28, and Johnny Mize, the other half of the Cards' one-two punch, took over the No. 1 spot in walloping triples, with ten, one more than Goodman, Gus Suhr of the Pirates and Don Gutteridge of the Cards.

Ott retained the lead in run-scoring, with 79 to Goodman's 77, and in batting in runs, with 75 to Medwick's 73. McCormick, with 127 base hits, still led in that department, far in front of Hack and Medwick, tied in second place with 115 each.

Goodman's 26 homers gave the Reds' walloper a bulge of three on Ott's second place 23. Hack and George Scharein of the Phillies remained tied for the lead in base-stealing, each with 11.

The Pirates' pitchers still ran one-two in the loop, Cy Blanton holding the lead with seven victories and one setback, and Rookie Bob Klinger being just behind him with eight wins and two losses.

ALL-STAR GAME SLATED MONDAY

Evangeline League Luminaries Will Tangle At New Iberia

LAFAYETTE, La., July 30.—(AP)—The official "north" team for the Evangeline league all-star game Monday night at New Iberia, and an unofficial lineup for the "south" club were announced today.

Frem Boustany, league president, said ballots cast by fans in seven cities of the loop had been tabulated. The report from Jeanerette had not been received, and the "south" team was not yet official.

The team chosen from the northern clubs of Lake Charles, Alexandria, Rayne and Opelousas was announced as follows:

Outfield—Black, Lake Charles; Litwhiler, Alexandria; Becker, Rayne, and utility, Bugg, Alexandria.

First base—Yourkovich, Rayne.
Second base—Zapor, Alexandria.
Third base—Patrick, Alexandria.
Shortstop—Fisher, Lake Charles.
Utility infielder—Strohm, Opelousas.
Catchers—Forte, Rayne; Lawrence, Lake Charles.
Pitchers—Mann, Rayne; Scherer, Lake Charles; Mackey, Opelousas; Maxfield, Opelousas.
Manager—Joe Bratcher, Lake Charles.

The "south" selections, with Jeanerette returns missing, were:

Outfield—Barnhart, Lafayette; Flanagan, Abbeville; Fair, New Iberia, and utility, Millspaugh, Lafayette.
First base—Manning, Jeanerette.
Second base—Oceak, Lafayette.
Third base—Busch, Lafayette.

NEW BALL LOOP TO OPEN TODAY

Northeast Louisiana League Opens Schedule At Dubach And Ansley

The newly organized Northeast Louisiana baseball league goes into action today with games scheduled to be played at Dubach and Ansley.

The opening games of the four-team loop will find the Monroe Pirates at Ansley, and the Holly Ridge aggregation at Dubach.

The Northeast Louisiana league was organized here July 22 after the four teams had failed in an attempt to gain admission into the Big Six league during the Big Six's second half schedule.

Managers of the clubs forming the new league are Joe Mount, Dubach; R. L. Strong, Holly Ridge; R. E. Crowe, Jr., Ansley; and R. Wroten, Monroe.

The league, operating under the same rules and regulations as the Big Six, will play through September 18.

Games will be played on Sunday and Wednesday of each week.

FOOTBALL OFFICIALS TO MEET NEXT SEPTEMBER

RICHMOND, Va., July 30.—(AP)—George S. (Gummy) Proctor, acting chairman for this district of the Southern Football Officials association, which includes both the Southern and Southeastern conferences, announced today the association would hold its annual meeting here September 10 and 11.

The approximately 250 officials, in addition to annual oral examinations on rules and duties of officials, will undergo physical tests which call for running 50 yards in 7 seconds.

LOCAL AQUATIC CLUB WINS MEET

Monroe Team Beats Shreveport, 30-27; Claims North Louisiana Title

The Monroe Aquatic club yesterday laid claim to the north Louisiana swimming and diving championship after chalking up a 30 to 27 victory over the Shreveport Sea Horses at Shreveport Friday night.

The victory over Shreveport gave the Monroe club wins over every swimming and diving team in this section of the state. Russell Harding, life guard at Swayze natatorium here, and one of the coaches of the local team, said the defeat of Shreveport was sufficient to give Monroe the championship. Bastrop and Ruston are the other north Louisiana teams already beaten by the locals.

"Red" Rivers, Neville High school city diving champion at a city tournament held at Swayze natatorium last Wednesday, proved his superiority at Shreveport in diving. Rivers easily trimmed the Shreveport aggregation of divers, while his teammate, John Stewart, came through with second place.

Winners in the swimming events at Shreveport were as follows:

100-yard relay, Monroe (Holt, Evans, Adams and Thompson); 50-yard free style, Holt of Monroe; 75 yard medley, Monroe (A. Cruikshank, E. Evans, Holt); backstroke, Lydle fo Shreveport; 100-yard free style, Lydle of Shreveport.

A city swimming tournament will be conducted Wednesday night at the local natatorium, it was announced last night. Any swimmers from Monroe or West Monroe will be allowed to participate.

ALL-STAR GAME TO CLIMAX COACHING SCHOOL AT L. S. U.

BATON ROUGE, La., July 30.—(AP)—The North-South Louisiana all-star football game will be played next Saturday at the L. S. U. stadium here as the climax to the fourth annual Louisiana State university coaching school which opens Tuesday morning.

Coach Bernie Moore of L. S. U. will train the north Louisiana squad and Lowell (Red) Dawson of Tulane will coach the south Louisianians. The all-star members were selected by committees of the Louisiana High School Coaches association and will begin practice sessions Monday.

Moore heads the faculty of the coaching school. Others who will lecture are Raymond (Bear) Wolf, head football coach at the University of North Carolina, Dawson and Coach Larry (Moon) Mullins of Loyola university, New Orleans.

Scores of high school coaches from Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi, Tennessee and Alabama are expected to attend the school.

MONROE WINS 2 TILTS TO SWEEP 'CRUCIAL' SERIES

Locals Cop First Game, 4-0, And Add Night Contest, 8-5; Helena Here Today

By George V. Lofton

Monroe's White Sox achieved the goal they've been striving for ever since Doug Taitt took over the management of the local club when they swept a double header with Clarksdale yesterday, 4 to 0 and 8 to 5, to take over fourth place in the Cotton States league standings.

With the Sox giving their pitchers some sensational support, Monroe trimmed the Mississippians in both ends of the day-night twin bill to go ahead of the Red Sox in the battle for berths in the playoff. Some lusty hitting in the pinches also helped the cause along in both games.

AFTERNOON GAME

In the afternoon game the White Sox gave Tom Perry some sensational support afield to enable the southpaw star to win his sixth game of the season with no defeats. "Red" Pruitt at third base was particularly outstanding, knocking down two hard hit balls to start two double plays. The White Sox turned in four twin killings to help Perry out of holes. Johnny Conway, Frank Hackney and Pete Medak all played a great brand of ball in backing up the southpaw ace.

Perry allowed eight hits, one more than Monroe got, but he was most effective in the pinches. Mickey Harris, who went the route for Clarksdale, also pitched a winning brand of ball in every inning but the second, when the White Sox scored all four of their runs.

After the Red Sox had filled the bases without scoring in the first frame, the White Sox batted around in the last of the second for four tallies. Harris gave up four bases on balls during the game but three of them came in the second frame and the locals combined three hits with the passes to put the game on ice.

Hackney led off by working Harris for a base on balls. Medak also walked. Pruitt promptly singled into right field and Hackney scored the first run of the game. Bobby Schang slapped a double down the right field foul line, scoring Medak and Pruitt. Perry laid down a bunt and beat it out for an infield hit, Schang reaching third. Conway skied to left and Schang scored after the catch with the fourth run of the inning. Glenn Murray sacrificed Perry and Rhea, who had walked, to third and second, respectively, but Taylor popped to Jack Baer at first for the third out.

Those four runs proved enough for Perry. However, he was in trouble in the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh

DOUBLE HEADER TODAY

Helena's Seaporters come to Casino park for two games today as the Monroe White Sox wind up their abbreviated home stand. The first game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

Manager Doug Taitt announced last night that John Yelovic and Bill Howell, both righthanders, would start the games for the White Sox. Following today's twin bill, the White Sox go to Clarksdale for two games that open a road trip that extends until next Sunday.

FILMLAND'S CHARITY GAME DRAWS 30,000

LOS ANGELES, July 30.—(AP)—The annual motion picture charity baseball game went off in customary style today, which means that an overflow crowd of 30,000 packed Wrigley field to watch the film favorites cut strange and ridiculous didoes on the diamond.

It took almost an hour to play the first inning, and two hours later one of the teams—it may have been the comedians—announced they were leading by a score of approximately 25 to 2.

The opposing leading men's team said the score was approximately correct, but that they were in the lead.

In the initial hour of play Captain Dick Powell reached first on an autograph from Warren William, but Buster Keaton, cavorting around the infield, "shot" him down with a six-shooter as he tried to steal second.

Handsome John Boles rapped out a nifty single off bald-pated Vince Barnett, but was thrown for a two-yard loss by Nat Pendleton, Milton Berle and eight other comedians. A moment later Hugh Herbert came to the plate but his effort was as weak as his famous "woo-woo," and his base runner, Lionel Stander, went out like Boles on a flying tackle.

The three Ritz brothers sent word they would be on hand to throw out the last ball, and themselves with it, for the only triple play of the game.

DIZZY DEAN ROUTED AS PHILLIES WIN, 5 TO 4

DIZ LASTS LESS THAN 5 INNINGS AS PHILS RALLY

Celiarites Get Tying Runs Off Dean; French Is Charged With Defeat

PHILADELPHIA, July 30.—(AP)—The last-place Phillies knocked Dizzy Dean out of the box in the fifth inning today and then went on to score their second straight victory over the Chicago Cubs by a 5 to 4 score.

Claude Passeau won his own game in the eighth with a single. It was his eighth triumph of the season. The blow was at the expense of Larry French, who had replaced Dean. French was charged with the defeat, his second in two days. The Cubs had tied the score at 4-4 in the seventh on Hack's single with the bases full.

Consecutive doubles by Passeau and Baxter Jordan sent Dean to the showers with none out in the fifth. He yielded six hits in four innings, including a homer by Chuck Klein.

PIRATES WALLOP DODGERS

BROOKLYN, July 30.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates officially ended their Brooklyn "whammy" today. Landing on a pair of pitchers for 15 hits, they trampled the Dodgers 9 to 2 and for the first time this year showed an edge over the Brooklyns in the season's play.

They lead the Daffiness boys, eight victories to seven for the season.

The Pirates remain five games in front of the second-place New York Giants.

The Waner boys, Big Poison Paul and Little Poison Lloyd, set the pace for the Pirate attack, each connecting for a triple and a pair of singles and driving in two runs.

Cy Blanton turned in his eighth pitching victory against one set-back for the year, although Mace Brown had to rush to the rescue in the seventh, when the Dodgers threatened.

CARDS TROUNCE BEES

BOSTON, July 30.—(AP)—With Lefty Bob Weiland, the Bees' nemesis, pitching nine-hit ball, the St. Louis Cardinals drubbed the Boston club, 8 to 2, today.

While Weiland was striking out eight batters and aiding his own cause by making three hits himself, the Redbirds landed on their "cousin," Jim Turner, for thirteen hits, finally driving him out with a four-run attack in the seventh on a pass and four hits, two of them doubles.

GIANTS NOSE OUT REDS

NEW YORK, July 30.—(AP)—Jojo Moore, back in action after a lengthy stay on the hospital list, hit a homer with two mates aboard in the seventh inning today to change Paul Derringer's hopes for a shutout into a 3 to 2 victory for the Giants over the Cincinnati Reds.

The win was the third straight for the New Yorkers.

Derringer handcuffed Bill Terry's Terries through the first six frames, allowing only five hits.

Hal Schumacher, who started for the Giants, walked the first batter and was yanked immediately.

BIG SIX LEAGUE TO SECOND HALF

Clarks Wins First Half Race; Other Clubs Being Strengthened

The Big Six baseball league swings into its second half schedule today with opening games finding Clarks at Chatham, Calhoun at Downsville, and Mer Rouge at Bastrop.

The Clarks Lumberjacks won the first half race by two full games over the second place Mer Rouge. Only one game separated Calhoun, Chatham and Bastrop who finished third, fourth and fifth respectively. Downsville was two games behind fifth place Bastrop.

The second half race is expected to be even closer as practically all of the weaker teams have added new players in the past week in the hope of developing stronger aggregations.

The winner of the second half race will meet the Clarks aggregation in a championship series at the close of the regular schedule.

The league, playing games on Sunday and Wednesday of each week, has 90 games scheduled for the second half, 15 for each team. The schedule ends September 18.

HE NEEDS ARMOR

GOLDEN, Colo.—(AP)—It is to be hoped John English, Colorado Mines infielder, doesn't bruise easily. He was hit by pitched balls five times in Mines' first six games this season.

Hank Greenberg Bangs Away At Ruth's Homer Record

Powers Drops 14 Points But Holds Batting Lead

Doug Taitt And Glenn Murray Of Monroe Among Top Five Sluggers

Pitchers in the Cotton States league were getting past Pudge Powers, veteran El Dorado slugger, the past week and his batting average fell off 14 points, but he still maintained his leadership as the circuit's top hitter with an average of .363. In 25 times at bat the past week, Powers got only four hits, one single, two triples and a homer.

The Monroe White Sox still had two players among the top five in Manager Doug Taitt and Glenn Murray. Taitt and Murray have been smacking the ball at a satisfactory clip for the past few weeks to maintain averages of .338 and .337, respectively. Pete Medak has been hitting above .300 for some time, and Beauford Rhea climbed into the .300 crowd last week with a .307.

The Greenville Buckshots still pace the league in the team departments of fielding and batting. Their batting is at .283, four points better than second place Helena, and their club fielding at .960, is seven points above that of Pine Bluff.

Monroe improved one point in team batting and fielding, but still remained at the same slot in the standing as a week ago.

"Chick" Galeria, from all indications, will hold his place as the league's leading hurler, although he lost another game the past week to give him an average of .789 with 15 victories and four defeats.

Radney, of Greenwood, who has been pacing Galeria, lost two games last week, thus falling from .733 to .647.

Monroe hurlers were beginning to get more recognition as they piled up wins. Tom Perry, White Sox's southpaw, was placed among the top hurlers this week after hurling five victories. He hasn't lost a game. John Yelovic, another Monroe ace, won two games the past week to jump his average 60 points to .727, with eight wins against three defeats.

NO-HITTER PITCHED IN SEMI-PRO SERIES

LAUREL, Miss., July 30.—(AP)—Flanagan pitched a no-hit, no-run game today for the Baton Rouge Essos, Louisiana champions, to defeat the Laurel All-Stars 4 to 0 in the first game of the regional semi-pro baseball tourney.

Only two Laurel men got on base as the Baton Rouge tosser sensationally burned the ball past the plate. One received a walk and the other reached second on an error in the ninth inning.

Laurel, the Mississippi champion, showed a fast defense with five double plays. Parou hit a home run for Baton Rouge in the third inning with one man on base. The second game will be played here tomorrow.

The winner of the regional tourney will go to the national semi-pro congress next month at Wichita, Kan.

TIGER STAR GETS 2 CIRCUIT BLOWS IN TWIN VICTORY

Detroit Sweeps Double Header With Athletics, 10 To 7, And 8 To 7

DETROIT, July 30. — (AP) — Hank Greenberg banged out his 36th and 37th homers of the year and rookie Pitcher Harry Eisenstat came up with two brilliant pieces of relief hurling to give the Detroit Tigers a sweep of a double header with the Philadelphia Athletics today.

The scores were 10 to 7 and 8 to 7, and in both games Greenberg hit for the circuit in the eighth inning with mates on base to pull Detroit from behind. Eisenstat got credit for both victories, pitching the last two innings of the first game and the last four frames of the nightcap.

The victories extended Detroit's winning streak to eight games.

Today's homers put Greenberg far ahead of Babe Ruth's pace in 1927 when he set the record of 60 in a season. Ruth did not hit his 37th homer until August 16, and the 1927 season opened earlier than the present campaign.

EARL AVERILL IN BATTING DECLINE

Cleveland Star Slipping Rapidly In Hitting As Jimmy Foxx Closes In

CHICAGO, July 30.—(AP)—Cleveland's Earl Averill who early in June rode into the American league batting lead on a barrage of base hits, is near another ride—in reverse—because of the lack of them.

Semi-official averages including games of Friday showed the Indian slugger had fallen off 15 points in the last two weeks, skidding to a .360 figure, which was just four points better than Jimmy Foxx of Boston and five better than Washington's Cecil Travis. Averill's heaviest loss came last week when he made only two hits in five games for a 11 point drop.

Foxx missed the chance to go into the lead by dropping six points to .356. Travis, meanwhile, went on a brief spree that raised his figure from .347 to .355.

Others in the "high ten" were: Hank Steinbacher, Chicago, .341; Hal Trosky, Cleveland, .338; Jackie Hayes, Chicago, .329; Joe DiMaggio, New York, .321; Joe Vosmik, Boston, .320; Roger Cramer, Boston, .318; Joe Cronin, Boston, 318. Buddy Myer and George Case, both of Washington, fell out of the select group over the week, making way for the return of DiMaggio and Cronin.

Detroit's Hank Greenberg continued to fall short of the ranking ten, but boosted his homer mark to 35 and took the scoring lead from Foxx with 81 runs. Foxx, however, retained his runs batted in lead with 101. Buddy Lewis of Washington, had the most hits, 122 and Cronin topped the field in doubles with 28. Jeff Heath tied Averill, his teammate in triples at nine and Lewis moved into a tie with Bill Werber of Philadelphia, Lyn Lary of Cleveland and Frank Crosetti of New York for stolen base honors at 12.

Johnny Allen of Cleveland finally was stopped after clicking off 12 straight pitching victories, but retained the lead in that department, 13 wins and two losses. The ailing Bob Grove of Boston held second with 14 and 3, while Spud Chandler of New York had 9 and 2 and his teammate Red Ruffing had 13 and 3.

Team honors remained the same with Boston's .290 pacing the club hitting, St. Louis' .974 the fielding. The Browns also continued to lead in double plays with 98.

Major league owners are enthusiastic about the school system that is being worked out in Boston, Philadelphia, Detroit and San Francisco. They know early instruction makes for better players.

"We try to teach the boys the proper batting stride, so they'll be set for slow pitching as well as fast," explains an instructor.

Chicagoans declare that from last year's school they've got a half dozen homegrown boys who'll go into professional ball when they finish high school.

SWING IT

"How," we asked Earl Averill, "do you account for hitting at a .375 clip this season when, after hitting .378 in 1936, you fell off to .299 last year?"

Waiting for the Earl of Snohomish to poke his head up through the shirt of his uniform, we were prepared for the inevitable answer involving technicalities of stance, grip, and such. But as he shrugged the garment down on his shoulders and reached for his shoes, he came up with an unlooked-for, if not downright amazing, reply . . . a reason so simple.

"That's easy," he said. "It took me all last season to learn that because my name was Earl Averill it didn't mean that I got my base hits every day. I discovered that I still had to swing a bat. So . . . !" and he straightened up with a chuckle . . . "That's what I'm doing . . . and it works."

Averill, sole remaining member of the famous San Francisco outfield, Averill, Smead Jolley and Roy Johnson, of 1928, in big time, is pacing the Cleveland Indians in their first real, serious flag bid in 18 years; pacing them at an age, 35, when, for most major leaguers, the handwriting is already in the headlines.

Bill Knickerbocker considers Averill the finest hitter that he's seen since he crashed the American league, and that includes Joe DiMaggio.

Many players wish they had his timing.

BACK ON FARM TO CURE BAD ARM

Paul Dean is a disconsolate figure as he divides his weight between a cultivator and a hoe while contemplating his baseball future. Dean believes that he finally has found the cure that will restore the effectiveness that was his when he was a St. Louis Cardinal hero in 1934 and '35. It is hard work on his farm near Dallas. The younger of the famous pitching brothers has enjoyed some success since leaving the Houston Buffs for the Dallas Steers, and says that his arm never felt stronger.

This week's games in the Twilight softball league bring the official playing schedule of the loop to a close with the exception of a few postponed games yet to be played. Five teams are in the running for a place in the title playoffs, but only the first four in the standings will be qualified to appear in the series.

Saul Adler Garage, United Gas, Independents, Holsum and Southern Bell are the teams battling for positions in the playoffs with Adler and the Gassers having little to worry about. At the close of the schedule, arrangements for the title series will begin with the league leaders meeting the team finishing third in a three-game series, and the second and fourth place teams meeting in a similar series. Winners of the preliminary games will fight it out in another three-game series for the championship.

EVANGELINE LEAGUE

(By Associated Press)

Abbeville threw Lafayette out of its one-night berth at the top of the Evangeline league standings Saturday night by trimming the White Sox 5 to 4.

The defeat put the Sox in a tie for second place with Lake Charles, which defeated the Jeanerette Blues, 7 to 0.

Abbeville's Athletics rang up 13 hits off the slants of Montalvo to topple Lafayette. The Sox solved Midkiff and Beasley for only eight.

The Lake Charles Skippers had an easy time whitewashing Jeanerette. They pounded Brister for 15 safeties while Atkinson was yielding three to the Blues.

Alexandria and New Iberia split a double bill, the Aces taking the first contest 4 to 2 and New Iberia annexing the second, 3 to 2. The opener was a continuation of the June 27 game suspended in the second inning because of a fight between two players.

The Opelousas Indians were kept from playing at Rayne because of wet grounds.

innings but in each of these frames, the White Sox infield pulled a double play to ease the southpaw out of the holes. Clarksdale also threatened in the eighth when the first two men to face Perry got on base but the little lefthander bore down and got the next three men in fine fashion.

Glenn Murray saved a run in the fourth when he made a perfect throw from left field to nab Walsh at the plate when he attempted to score from second on Harris' single into left field.

Murray and Schang led the Monroe attack, each getting two hits, while George Cella, Clarksdale left fielder, was the only visitor to get a pair of safeties. Chuck Gillespie, at third, and Don Murray, at second, turned in a couple of sparkling fielding plays for the Red Sox.

NIGHT GAME

Two great fielding plays featured the night game, which found "Red" Andrews and Al Bronkhurst on the mound for Monroe and Carl Nikkel, elongated righthander, going the route for Clarksdale. Beauford Rhea and Pete Medak turned in the fielding gems. In the eighth inning Rhea made perhaps the greatest catch ever seen in the local park. Jack Baer hit a terrific drive to center field. With the crack of the bat, Rhea turned his back and scampered almost to the fence. Still running backwards, the fleet center fielder reached over his shoulder with his glove hand and smeared Baer's drive. Then in the ninth Medak made a leaping one-handed catch of Archer's drive toward first base with the bases loaded and raced back to the bag to complete an unassisted double play by touching out Uhle, who had walked. Both blows were labeled for extra bases and the two spectacular catches undoubtedly saved the ball game for the White Sox and enabled the locals to reach fourth place.

The night game was a thriller all the way. Monroe took an early lead, only to see Clarksdale go in front again in the fourth inning. The White Sox pushed over two runs in the sixth and four in the seventh to gain the advantage again but in the ninth Clarksdale chased Andrews with a two-run rally and then Medak saved the day for Al Bronkhurst with his double-play catch.

The Red Sox scored a run in the first inning of the night tilt when Uhle was safe on Conway's bobble, reached second on Archer's sacrifice, took third when Conwsy threw high to first on Cella's grounder and scored as Baer forced Cella at second. Monroe came right back with two runs in their half of the same frame. Conway singled. Rhea also singled and Conway took third when Center Fielder Uhle juggled the ball. In an attempt to catch Rhea off third, Nikkel threw wild to first, and Conway scored. Rhea then stole second and when Catcher Sparta's throw hit him and the ball bounded into short left field, Rhea went to third. He scored when Taitt grounded out to first.

The Red Sox went ahead in the fourth. With one out, Baer was hit by a pitched ball. Sparta rolled out to send Baer to second. Gillespie doubled to left, scoring Baer, and Don Murray got an infield single to tally Gillespie.

The White Sox regained the lead in the sixth with a two-run rally. Frank Hackney, who played a great game at second, handling seven chances without a bobble, led off with a single to left. Medak got an infield hit to deep short and Pruitt beat out a slow roller toward third, filling the bases. Taylor forced Pruitt at second but Hackney scored on the play, and then when Andrews forced Taylor, Medak crossed the plate.

Four Monroe runs were registered in the seventh to put the game on ice. With one out, Glenn Murray doubled to right. Taitt walked and Frank Hackney singled to left to score Murray, who had gone to third on a wild pitch. Pete Medak singled to left to score Taitt and Hackney came on home when Gillespie let the throw from the outfield get through him. Medak reached second when Left Fielder Cella bobbled his hit, and Hackney had taken third on the same error. When Gillespie erred, Medak reached third, and he scored as Pruitt beat out a slow roller in front of the plate. The play was made at home but Pete slid in safely with the fourth Monroe run of the inning.

The Red Sox threw a scare into the local camp in the ninth. Sparta led off with a single to left center. Gillespie grounded out but Walsh singled to left. Murray singled to right, scoring Sparta and that finished Andrews. Bronkhurst taking over the hurling chores for the White Sox. Ferraoili, batting for Nikkel, looped a single into left field to score Walsh, and Uhle walked. Medak then made a spectacular catch of Archer's line drive and doubled Uhle off first to end the ball game.

Medak, with three hits, led the Monroe attack in the night game, with Hackney and Pruitt getting two safeties each. Don Murray got three hits for Clarksdale and Walsh hit safely twice.

The Monroe White Sox, currently the "hottest" club in the Cotton States league, climbed into the first division Saturday by beating Clarksdale in a double header, 4 to 0 and 8 to 5. The twin whipping toppled the Red Sox into Monroe's former fifth-place slot.

In the first game the White Sox pushed over all their runs in the second inning and coasted in behind Tom Perry's shutout pitching, although outhit. Clarksdale got the jitters in the finale and committed seven errors while Monroe bunched 10 hits nicely.

Meanwhile, Pine Bluff humbled first-place Greenville, 14 to 3, El Dorado defeated Helena, 6 to 5, and Hot Springs shut out Greenwood, 7 to 0.

Schafer twirled a one-hitter for Hot Springs as the Bathers hammered two Dodger hurlers for 11 safeties.

The Pine Bluff Judges accumulated 15 hits while the Greenville Bucks could touch Cassibry for only seven and committed five errors. El Dorado staged a three-run rally in the ninth inning to down Helena.

STEELS, MOTORS SHOW STRENGTH

Favored Issues Push Upward Fractions To Point Or More At The Best

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, July 30.—(AP)—Steels and motors pointed the way for a selective stock market recovery today and favored issues pushed up fractions to a point or more at the best.

The come-back was accomplished on a relatively small volume, however, even for a Saturday session. Transfers were around 350,000 shares. Profit selling near the close chipped down best marks.

Many traders apparently felt the early pressure of dog-day apathy and got a head start on their week-end holiday. The result was that boardrooms were sparsely occupied and the ticker tape frequently loafed.

While leading stocks received a fair share of speculative attention, low-priced issues were again the liveliest, most adding small fractions to recent improvement.

Business news, on the whole, was still the main bolstering share influence. But some commentators thought the market might yet be called upon to test the lows of the past week. A more pronounced strain of caution was evident in commission houses.

Buying support was accorded U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Briggs Mfg., Yellow Truck, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, National Cash Register, Commercial Solvents, Coca-Cola, Richfield Oil, Childs Co., Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, American Telephone and Douglas Aircraft.

Bonds and commodities were narrowly mixed.

The curb market ended with minor changes either way.

A prop for the steels was found in unofficial estimates of another upturn next week in mill operations.

Most carriers shifted over an indifferent range as indications were that the wage-cut controversy would go to federal mediation. In addition the American Association of Railroads placed net operating income of all class one systems for the first half of 1938 at $70,289,305 against $299,466,304 in the same period last year.

Holders of the motors seemingly were inspired by the much brighter outlook for the automobile markets in coming months.

A fall of 15 per cent in wholesale trade during the first six months of the current year was reported by the commerce department, with manufacturers' sales off 24 per cent. Merchandising quarters recalled, though, that in the 1937 period wholesale distribution attained its highest level in several years.

OIL AND GAS NEWS

NEW ORLEANS, July 30.—(AP)—Ten new wells in Louisiana oil fields with total initial daily flow of 4,021 barrels were listed today in the weekly report of the minerals division of the department of conservation.

Cotton Valley in Webster, the state's newest "boom" field, led in new production with 1,877 barrels from four producers. It also had the largest well, No. 4 Webb of the Hunt Oil company, flowing 778 barrels through a three-eighths inch choke. Lisbon on the contrary reported only one completion, made earlier in the month, with a flow of 25 barrels daily.

In south Louisiana the Ville Platte field reported two new producers flowing 1,150 barrels through small chokes and three other south Louisiana fields had one new well each.

Permits issued during the week totalled 30, of which nine were for wells in south Louisiana. East of the Atchafalaya river permits were issued for new operations at Sorrento in Ascension parish, and at the Gulf Refining company's new Grand Bay field in Plaquemines parish.

New producers listed in the report of the department of conservation, with date of completion ranging from June 28 to July 25, were:

Cotton Valley, Webster, Magnolia Petroleum company, No. 1 Robbins unit, 445 barrels; Hunt Oil company, No. 2 Bodcau-Stewart, 452 barrels; No. 1 Bodcau Lumber company, 202 barrels; No. 4 Webb, 778 barrels, all through three-eighths inch choke; Creole, Cameron parish, Superior Oil company, No. 2 State-Gulf of Mexico, 478 barrels, 14-64 inch choke.

Hackberry, West Cameron, W. T. Burton, No. 1 F. Lacey, 113 barrels, 3-16 inch choke; Leeville, LaFourche, the Texas company, No. 69 Leeville, 385 barrels, one-fourth inch choke. Lisbon, Claiborne, Magnolia Petroleum company, No. 2 D. E. Fowler, 25 barrels, open flow; Ville Platte, Evangeline, Continental Oil company, No. 1 Opelousas-St. Landry Derouen, 574 barrels, No. 1 Tate-McDaniel, both through 3-16 inch choke.

Permits for new wells were issued to the following:

Acadia parish, Atlantic Refining company, T. G. Markley, Petroleum Heat and Power company, section; Ascension parish, Pan-American Production company, Bossier parish, Premier Investment (two permits); Caddo parish, Paul Wear; Cameron parish, Pure Oil company; Union Sulphur company.

Claiborne parish, Delta Drilling company and Sklar Oil corporation, Texas-Canadian Oil corporation (four permits); Grant parish, Grant Production corporation; Iberia, the Texas company; Plaquemines parish, Gulf Refining company; Sabine parish, the Hunter company, Inc., Richards and Holloway, C. R. Schuster.

St. Landry parish, Herton Oil company; Union parish, Inabnet and Pipes (two permits); Southern Carbon company, Union Producing company (two permits); Webster parish, Hunt Oil company (two permits); Midstate Oil corporation and Oliphant Oil corporation.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 30.—(AP)—Wheat prices sagged fractionally early today, the market was another draggy trading affair without definite direction and with Liverpool observing a holiday most traders preferred the sidelines.

NEEDY STUDENTS TO RECEIVE GIFTS

Decision Made At First Meeting Of Harris Scholarship Fund Board

BATON ROUGE, La., July 30.—(AP)—Gifts, not loans, will be made to needy college students from the Thomas H. Harris scholarship fund, the board appointed to administer it voted at its initial meeting today.

The board's action was contrary to recommendations made several weeks ago by State Superintendent of Education T. H. Harris, for whom the fund was named. He said he believed the money should be distributed as loans to deserving college students in Louisiana.

Mr. Harris said tonight he would be guided by the wishes of the board.

Nicholas Bauer, superintendent of Orleans parish public schools, was named chairman of the board of trustees of the fund, and E. M. Baskin, Baton Rouge, son-in-law of Harris, was appointed executive secretary. Baskin will have an office in the state capitol and will receive a salary of $3,600 a year from state school funds.

The board voted to confine gifts to undergraduates who have had excellent high school records. Funds will be paid monthly and a careful check will be kept on the students' records, Harris declared. "No money will be given to students whose parents are able to pay for their education," he said.

The fund was created at the last session of the legislature as a tribute to Superintendent Harris, who has held office for 30 years. The legislature appropriated $3,000 a year for use in granting scholarships at each of the following schools: Louisiana State university, Louisiana State Normal college, Louisiana Polytechnic institute, Southwestern Louisiana institute, Southeastern Louisiana institute and Southern university.

Members of the board are J. F. Gauthier of Arabi, William Pitcher of Covington, Mrs. W. B. Eisly of Tallulah, L. E. Frazer of Lafayette, and Mr. Bauer.

MONROE WORLD EMPLOYE REPORTS 'BLESSED EVENT'

BRAWL STIRS TRIAL OF SUSPENDED U. A. W. OFFICERS

When Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers union, and his supporters met at their headquarters in Detroit to try five suspended U. A. W. officers, friends of the men on trial forced their way into the building and engaged Martin's followers in a fist fight. This picture, which eluded U. A. W. guards who stripped newsmen's cameras, was taken just before George F. Addes, suspended secretary-treasurer, was reported to have struck a member of the U. A. W. office staff. Neither of them was engaged in fisticuff shown here.

A. F. L. ATTACK ON NLRB INDICATED

Likely To File Charges Against Employers Who Obey Orders Of Board

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor is likely to file charges of unfair labor practices against employers if they obey national labor relations board orders to bargain with rival C. I. O. unions, Joseph A. Padway, counsel of the A. F. of L. said today.

This is the general idea behind a proposal for resistance to board orders, which Padway will present to William Green, A. F. of L. president.

Padway yesterday attacked the board for its order invalidating a contract between the International Association of Machinists and the Serrick corporation, of Muncie, Ind., and directing the company to deal exclusively with the United Automobile Workers of America, a C. I. O. affiliate.

The federation had accused the board on several previous occasions of bias in favor of the C. I. O.

Padway said the general outline of the proposal to be presented to Green was this:

Where the board has, in the opinion of the A. F. of L. unfairly favored the C. I. O. in its decisions, designating C. I. O. unions as exclusive bargaining agents, the A. F. of L. will demand that the employer deal with the federation, regardless of the decision.

If the employer fails to do so, the A. F. of L. will file charges of unfair labor practices against him before the labor board. If the board fails to adjudge the action of the employer as unfair labor practice, the A. F. of L. will appeal the decision to the circuit courts.

Issues vitally affecting relations of American workers and employers under the Wagner act appear headed for supreme court review this fall.

They spring from these three sources: The three-year-old schism in the ranks of organized labor, the conflict over the legality of the sit-down strike, and dispute over the right of workers to break an anti-strike agreement and still claim protection of the labor board.

In the federal appellate courts another batch of labor relations questions probably will be brought up for tests in the coming months, predominantly involving the rivalry of the Committee for Industrial Organization and the American Federation of Labor.

Two cases already are on file in the supreme court. One is that of the Consolidated Edison company, of New York, involving board invalidation of an A. F. of L. contract. The other is the Columbian Enameling and Stamping case, which poses the question of workers' rights to strike in violation of a no-strike agreement and still retain the status of employers.

A third and highly important case likely to reach the supreme court is the board's order to the Fansteel Metallurgical corporation, of Chicago, to reinstate discharged C. I. O. sit-down strikers.

The circuit court of appeals in Chicago threw out the order and sustained the corporation's contention that participation in a sit-down strike should preclude reinstatement. The board is considering an appeal.

SUPER-HIGHWAY TO BE FINANCED

$58,000,000 Pennsylvania Construction Project Approved By RFC And PWA

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(AP)—Two government agencies agreed today to finance a $58,000,000 super-highway across—and under—the mountains of Pennsylvania.

Approval of the project by the RFC and PWA increased the total amount of construction authorized under the new public works program to more than a billion dollars.

The highway is the first undertaking to receive financing under the new policy of having the Reconstruction Finance corporation put up money for loans and the Public Works administration make direct grants. This policy is designed to expand the works program by supplementing PWA's limited funds.

If the Pennsylvania Turnpike commission finally agrees to the federal terms offered today for financing the all-weather toll turnpike from Harrisburg to Pittsburgh, the RFC will lend about $32,000,000 of the estimated construction cost and the PWA will make a grant of $26,000,000.

PWA also approved 131 other non-federal projects today. The list, one of the largest in recent weeks, involved a total construction cost of $72,056,977 of which the federal government will supply $32,279,731 in grants and $288,000 in loans.

Chicago's application for a $31,840,000 allotment for a "loop" subway was side-tracked temporarily when PWA Administrator Harold L. Ickes appointed a special board to investigate the application for the grant of $14,328,000. The city proposed to raise $17,512,000 of its own funds.

Aubrey Williams, executive director of the national youth administration, announced approval of allocations totaling $21,750,000 to finance the government's student aid program during the fiscal year which began July 1. College and graduate aid were allotted $11,913,595 and high school student aid $9,836,407. More than 24,000 high schools and 1,600 colleges will participate.

FORD CELEBRATES 75TH ANNIVERSARY

Auto Manufacturer Makes It Clear He Does Not Intend To Slow Down

DETROIT, July 30.—(AP)—Henry Ford took a day off from work today to join with his fellow citizens of Detroit in celebrating his 75th birthday anniversary, but made it clear that it was, after all, "just another birthday" and that he had no intention of slowing down.

In the morning he participated in a "party" staged by some 8,000 children who sang "Happy Birthday To You" at the Michigan State Fair grounds. This afternoon, in a private office of his engineering laboratory, he was presented with the Grand Cross of the German Eagle, by a representative of Adolf Hitler's government. Tonight he was a guest of honor at a banquet attended by 1,500 persons in Detroit's Masonic temple.

The decoration was presented to Ford on behalf of the German government by Karl Kapp, German consul at Cleveland, aided by Fritz Heiler, German consular representative in Detroit in commemoration of Ford's 75th birthday and in recognition of his industrial accomplishments.

"There is much work yet to be done," Ford said today in making it clear he had no intention of relinquishing any of the responsibility he carries for the great Ford industrial empire that had its beginning in the little red brick barn that stood back of his home in Bagley avenue here in 1893.

Chiefly, Ford pointed out, much of the prosperity he envisions ahead will come "when industry provides a greater market for the farmer." Already, he said, he had taken important steps in that direction in his development of multitudinous uses for agricultural products in his own industrial endeavors.

Approximately $300,000,000 has been invested in municipal airport improvements and construction by 738 cities.

Length Of Matchstick Has Become Important Factor In War With China

TOKYO, July 30.—(AP)—Japan has reached the point where the length of a matchstick and the skin of a rat represent an important factor in continuing the war with China—the economic factor.

So do toothpaste and tinfoil, toy balloons and chocolate bars, freckle cream and caviar, bathing suits and chewing gum, book-bindings and teacup decorations, golf balls and patent medicine and a thousand and one other things which might seem far removed from the "sinews of war."

Japan is not a nation of raw products. The materials that go into these things must be imported, paid for abroad. Japan today is like a jobless man, carefully guarding his resources and spending money only for necessities.

The nation has embarked on the most amazing program of retrenchment. Not even blockaded Germany of the World war could have been so tightly laced as Japan is today. It is a deliberate policy of scarcity.

Chemists in the ministry of agriculture are trying to work out a process to tan rat skins as a leather substitute. The government has asked match manufacturers to reduce the length of the stick by .029 inches.

Shortening of the Japanese matchstick, it is estimated, would save 1,000,000 yen ($290,000) a year—enough to keep the army going in China, at current spending rates, for about one hour and five minutes.

Major commodities, such as metals, oil, wool, cotton, leather and chemicals, long ago fell under the rationing system or were marked for removal from the market. The private citizen may buy only two gallons of gasoline a day.

More recently the government removed all raw cotton and cotton cloth from the domestic use. Iron is scarcer than gold. It is hard now to buy an iron frying pan; a month from now it will be impossible.

Patriotic publicity tells the people to wear their native "geta"—wooden clogs—instead of leather shoes. Since rubber is so valuable, there are no more toy balloons and fewer golf balls.

There is staple fiber, a vegetable thread, instead of cloth for book bindings; and no more gold on book-edges or tea sets.

The emperor has decreed that the imperial household must economize—no more expensive foreign wines or cigars. Imperial presents are crested with silver instead of gold, official cards have lost their gold edges.

In the midst of all this, one loud and critical voice was heard, Baron General Sadao Araki, hard-eyed veteran of all Japan's modern wars, saying:

"The nation seems to be carrying its sacrifices to extremes. A quick victory is contrary to the real trend of affairs. The public can go without leather shoes for a while, but it can't wear 'geta' for 20 or 30 years, the period over which, if necessary, we are determined to fight."

NAVY PLANE PELTED DOWN; 3 DEAD

The scattered debris seen in the photo above is all that's left of a navy bomber which crashed in a vegetable patch near New Haven, Conn., during a blinding rain squall in the series of storms which have racked the east, and carried three navy fliers to their death. Lieutenant J. F. McDonough of Boston, Lieutenant William J. Drumtra of Gloucester, Mass., and John R. Patch of Boston, were en route from Norfolk, Va., to the naval base at Squantum, Mass., when they encountered the storm and crashed.

DEFENDERS MAY BURN NANCHANG

Chinese Troops Building New Defenses In Effort To Halt Jap Advance

SHANGHAI, July 30.—(AP)—A hurried evacuation of Nanchang, prosperous capital of central China's Kiangsi province, got under way today and defending Chinese military leaders hinted they may burn the city before abandoning it to advancing Japanese armies.

The metropolis presented a deserted appearance, with most stores closed. The majority of the population, normally about 300,000, either had evacuated or was on the way out.

Meanwhile Chinese troops feverishly built new defenses in an attempt to halt Japanese forces pressing down from the Yangtze river, 100 miles to the north.

Failing to halt this drive, in which there was bitter fighting today with heavy casualties apparently on both sides, the Chinese were expected to apply the torch to Nanchang in accordance with the "scorched earth" policy of leaving nothing useful to the invaders.

While fighting flared throughout the Yangtze region as the Japanese sought to drive up the river toward Hankow, Chinese provisional capital, the Chinese asserted the invaders were unable to progress during the past 24 hours either on the north or south banks.

A fierce battle was fought at Susung, about 25 miles northeast of Kiukiang, in which the Chinese reported heavy Japanese casualties.

On the south bank of the river the Japanese almost ringed Kuling, a mountain resort 14 miles from Kiukiang, cutting off 150 foreigners there, including more than 50 Americans.

LOUISIANA STUDENTS TO RECEIVE AID FROM NYA

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(AP)—The National Youth administration announced today approval of allocations totaling $21,750,000 to provide part-time jobs for more than 350,000 students in schools and colleges in every state.

Aubrey Williams, NYA executive director, said the funds would be distributed in nine monthly installments, beginning August 1.

Of the total, $9,836,407 was for aid to high school students, and $11,913,593 for college and graduate aid.

State allocations included (first amount for high schools, second for colleges):

Louisiana $140,495 and $233,837.

SKINNER RITES PLANNED TODAY

Services Will Be Held At Residence In West Monroe This Afternoon

Mrs. Sadie McGee Skinner, 27, wife of John G. Skinner, died at a local hospital Saturday morning, leaving a daughter, Margo Rose Skinner only a few days old.

The funeral will be held at the residence, 2231 Trenton street, West Monroe, this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Interment will be in Hasley cemetery. Rev. E. E. LOUISIANA BOILER LAW

After October 1, 1938, all power boilers in Louisiana (with the exception of boilers located in the City of New Orleans and boilers under Federal control) must be inspected annually.

The act further provides that on and after December 31, 1938, it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, partnership or corporation to operate under pressure in this state a boiler to which this Act applies, without a valid inspection certificate.

THE INSPECTIONS OF OUR BOILER INSURANCE COMPANY WILL MEET THE STATE'S REQUIREMENTS. OUR PREMIUM FOR BOTH INSPECTION AND INSURANCE IS VERY LITTLE MORE THAN THE COST OF STATE INSPECTION.

Representing a boiler insurance company writing half the boiler insurance written in Louisiana and handling a large volume of this class of insurance, enables us to offer you prompt and efficient service in this specialized and exacting line of insurance.

Inquiries will be welcomed by:

Miss Mary Ellen Barnette Becomes Bride Of Herbert C. Henry At Arcadia

Marriage Unites Two Well-Known Families

Young Couple Will Make Home In Wisconsin After Honeymoon Along Gulf Coast

A marriage of exceeding interest to a wide circle of friends throughout the state is that of Miss Mary Ellen Barnette, accomplished young daughter of Mrs. Bertram F. Barnette and the late Senator Bertram F. Barnette, of Arcadia, and Mr. Herbert Collins Henry, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Henry of West Monroe, which was solemnized with impressive simplicity at the home of the bride in Arcadia on Thursday, July 28 at 8 o'clock in the evening.

A beautiful pre-nuptial concert was rendered. "Because" was sung by Miss Lucille Madden of Arcadia, and "I Love You Truly," by Mr. Jack May of Ruston. Mrs. J. W. Wilson, talented cousin of the bride, presided at the piano.

The reception suite was beautifully arranged with tall floor baskets of pink Radiance roses and ferns. Before an improvised alter of southern smilax, palms and graduated floor baskets of pink Radiance roses, the marriage rites were read in the soft glow of white cathedral candles in seven-branched candelabra. To the strains of Lohengrin, the bride, radiantly lovely in a navy model by Verone, with powder blue trim, navy accessories and an exquisite corsage of white orchids and valley lilies, entered with the bridegroom. They were met at the altar by the Rev. H. M. Johnson, who officiated.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held. Mrs. Barnette, mother of the bride, beautifully gowned in white linen lace with corsage of Sweetheart roses, received the guests. Also in the receiving line was Mrs. Henry, mother of the groom, attractively gowned in pink alencon lace with corsage of Sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley.

The dining table, covered with an exquisite imported lace cloth, had for central motif the wedding cake, beautifully embossed, and placed in a mound of pink rose buds, with ribbons bearing the bride's favors. Crystal holders held white tapers and tall crystal compotes held the pink and white mints and candies. Assisting in the courtesies of the dining room and serving punch and individual cakes, embossed with pink rose buds, and the moulded cream, were Misses Doris and Audrey Bryan, Inez and Dorothy Wade, Daisy Claire Woodard and Shirley Hightower.

Immediately following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Henry left for a motor trip along the gulf coast, after which they will be at home in Green Bay, Wis., where Mr. Henry is chemist for the Menominee Sugar company.

Mrs. Henry is one of Arcadia's most popular young ladies, being a graduate of the Arcadia High school and for the past two years she has been a member of the school of journalism at the Louisiana State university where she was a member of the Chi Omega sorority. Mr. Henry is a graduate of Louisiana Tech at Ruston and also of the sugar chemistry school of the Louisiana State university.

Out-of-town guests included: Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Henry, Miss Alice Henry, Miss Kate Henry, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Preston, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Collins, Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Russell, Dr. Harold Wilenzick, Miss Lillian Collins, Miss Janet Rosenburg, Thomas May, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon McCoy, Miss Marjorie McCrary, and Russell Stellwagon, all of Monroe and West Monroe; Judge and Mrs. W. C. Barnette, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Barnette, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Barnette, Nelson Barnette, and Dr. and Mrs. L. Davidge, all of Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. John Kimbal of Homer, Mrs. J. W. Wilson and Woodfin and Beverly Wilson of Marksville; Courtland Smith of Amite, and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hamner of Gibsland.

Sub-Deb Club Is Organized

A new social organization, the Sub-Deb club, came into being last week with a charter membership of six, and a popular young lady of this city, Miss Nelda Caldwell, selected as president.

The club had its initial meeting July 25 when a group of young college girls met at the home of Miss Geraldine John.

This enthusiastic group is interested in developing companionship and friendship and in seeking more wholesome entertainment. Several social affairs have already taken place and the members are looking forward to other events of equal enjoyment. Business meetings will be held twice monthly with social development the topic of study.

Officers selected to guide the destiny of the Sub-Deb club for the ensuing year are: President, Miss Nelda Caldwell; vice-president, Miss Marion Smith; secretary, Miss Geraldine John; treasurer, Miss Martha Marshall. Members present besides the officers were Miss Aline Fawcett and Miss Sarah Alton and sponsor, Mrs. Mike John, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Lewman and daughter, Miss Mary West Lewman, accompanied by Mrs. Lewman's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. O. R. West, and two children of Louisville, Ky., motored to New Orleans last week for a brief visit. En route home they spent a few hours in Baton Rouge visiting the state capitol and other places of interest in south Louisiana.

A called meeting of the East Carroll Garden club attended by 15 members, was held at the home of the secretary, Mrs. J. C. Hamley to discuss financing the printing of the state garden club year book. Larger clubs are required to take two pages and the smaller clubs one page each. Mrs. C. A. Rose was appointed to conduct correspondence with the state president relative to requirements in the acceptance or refusal of the one page of advertising. Mrs. W. C. Lyon and Miss Edith Wilson were named a committee to prepare material for the page.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Sturgeon and daughter, Miss Mary Ella Gladden, and Miss Josephine Spencer have returned from a most enjoyable trip in the Ozark mountains, visiting Mount Gayler, Bella Vista, Rogers and Eureka Springs.

Henry Sandman is visiting friends in the southern part of the state. Before returning home he will spend some time visiting his aunt, Mrs. Abe Gold, in Baton Rouge.

Miss Regina Scherck is enjoying an extended trip through the western states. She has visited Colorado Springs and is now in Manitou Springs, Colo.

Miss Betty Jean Hardeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Hardeman, is spending the summer at Camp Joy Zelle, Monte Ne, Ark.

Mrs. Harriet Buchanan, Mrs. W. E. Burns and daughter, Frances Edwina, have returned from a visit in Lake Charles. Mrs. Buchanan also visited friends in Epps and Lake Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. James Sparks and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Davis returned home last week from a motor trip to Mexico City and points of interest en route.

Mrs. R. R. Reynolds, who left for Galesburg, Ill., two weeks ago, still remains at the bedside of her mother, Mrs. Mary Dickerson, who continues critically ill.

Edward Hayman and Paul Oxley motored to Youngstown, O., yesterday to visit in the home of Mr. Hayman's mother for two weeks.

Mrs. J. L. Francis and son will leave the first of the week for a visit with friends in Shreveport, Tyler, Dallas and Fort Worth. Before returning home they will visit points of interest in the southwest.

Mrs. W. E. Beach and daughter, Sue Ann, of Charleston, S. C., will arrive Monday to be guests of Mrs. Beach's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Dongieux of West Monroe.

Mrs. R. L. Wood and daughter, Elizabeth Ann, have returned from a three-week visit in Denver, Colorado Springs and Manitou, Colo. They also visited in Cheyenne, Wyo., where they attended the celebration of Frontier day.

Mrs. Elmer Richards and children are enjoying a delightful visit with relatives in Mount Pleasant, Tex.

Mrs. Aaron Parker and Miss Virginia Newman have returned from an enjoyable visit in Chicago.

Miss Katherine McClain has returned from a visit in Mexico and other points of interest in the west.

Miss Jane Landry will leave this morning for Helena, Ark., where she will visit friends for two weeks.

Miss Peggy McCrary is visiting friends at the Randolph hotel in El Dorado.

Mrs. James S. Carroll of Dallas is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. V. McGimsey.

LOVELY BRIDE

By Eve C. Bradford

THIS is traditionally the time of year when summer's torrid sun lays a humid hand on social life—when appetites crave cold jellied consomme and sweeter by far than sublime symphonies, the musical tinkle of ice cubes in a tall, frosted glass.

Are you facing the tag end of summer with nerves frayed? Are you getting stale, and has the humdrum, prosaic every-day existence finally got you down? Get grass under your feet and seek a skyline without smoke. Get stars overhead in place of electric lights and get a good whiff of pine-scented air. In other words, forget the harsh realities and take a vacation. Summer is racing by, so decide today to get away from work if only for a week. Let the rest of the world go by while you fish and swim, sleep and eat in some remote corner.

One "if" by land and two "ifs" by sea! Like Paul Revere, Marion Learned looked two ways last week before making a final decision—whether to go by land or air to New York City. Before making a decision she was a daily visitor at Selman field, watching the ships arrive and scanning the sky above. Modernity finally won and Marion sailed away as happy as a lark Saturday morning on her first long flight. She will enjoy a three-week visit in New York and Philadelphia.

It was a shabby trick Fate played on Doris Anish last week. All in readiness for her trip on the St. Lawrence, Saugenay river and Hudson bay, en route to Quebec, she suddenly developed an infected foot and her traveling companion, Maible Hood, had to leave without her, as reservations on the steamer from Buffalo had already been engaged and paid for. Strange indeed how Fate steps in and manages our lives. In other words, "Man proposes but God disposes."

If you have ever dined at Sherry's in New York City then you can visualize Mildred Cole's wedding reception which takes place at this ritzy establishment following her wedding August 9th. Mildred, who spent her early girlhood here in Monroe, always said that when she married she wanted all the trimmings. Her wish has come true. Nothing the gods have to offer could be more desirable than Sherry's glamorous background.

Following the death of Mildred's father, Dr. Herbert Cole, Mildred and her mother and sister, Nell, took up residence in Baltimore and New York. She has been studying voice for several years and now comes word of her approaching marriage. Glancing over a gossip column in last Sunday's edition of a New Orleans paper, we ran across the following bit of gossip we feel sure will interest Mildred's kinfolks and friends who read this column. Here it is:

"There are no two ways about it, when something happens to one Monroe it affects so many people that you have to write about them all and when they get on the move en masse, it is quelque chose de formidable!

"Of course, right now it is Sam Labouisse's wedding to Mildred Cole on August 10, and as they both are living in New York what more could all the cousins and aunts and uncles need for an excuse to go east? They are

Child Training Theories Confusing

A Monroe mother expressed her views recently on the present mode of child training during vacation. She read numerous books on child psychology but after reading several of them confessed that she was a trifle confused. Daughters, according to the books, are very complex individuals and must be studied, diagnosed and their reactions pondered upon. It is all ultra modern and complicated, she said, especially "when thought travels back to my own childhood and a placid, pleasant mother." It was long ago before mothers knew the meaning of frustration and complexes and "problem" children.

She said: "We didn't need any child guidance in those days. We did as we pleased during the three months' vacation. We just played around our own backyard. Mother let us alone. Usually the first week of vacation we slept late in the mornings, got our own breakfasts, fresh from the ice box—berries, milk and "scraps." Maybe we forgot to wash our teeth and wore no shoes or stockings. Such happy days they were.

"Mother went about her housework singing and letting us alone. That was the nicest part of vacation. Just being let alone. I do not mean that mother went away to a club meeting, a bridge party or shopping. She was always at home, busy and cheery.

"Mother let us alone, yet she always seemed to have plenty of chocolate cake and cookies and fresh bread. She always knew where to find lost things and she always knew what to suggest in the way of entertainment.

"There were very few musts in our house. Vacation time was a period of bliss because mother let us alone."

Vacation time, according to this wise mother, is no time for child training. Her daughters are enjoying the old-fashioned letting alone she herself enjoyed when a child.

Mildred Johnson Will Be Married August 22

Mother Announces Engagement At Tea Given At Residence Thursday Afternoon

Luscious pink and green gateaux, inscribed with the names Mildred and Arbra, were passed among the guests who attended the announcement party given by Mrs. Walter C. Johnson at her home on Stubbs avenue Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Johnson employed this method of announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Mildred, to Mr. Arbra E. Johnson, Jr., of Athens, Ga. The date of the wedding, August 22, adorned the large green mints attached to fragrant nosegays of pink roses, placed on the refreshment plates. Ices in pink and green were also served.

Miss Johnson, the central figure in this group of intimates, wore a lovely horizon blue Alencon lace model. Mrs. Johnson wore a smart black and white floor-length model.

Misses Eloise Temple, Jane Warren, Mrs. Warren Stevenson of Bastrop, Mrs. J. S. Myrick and Miss Virginia Earl Kersh, wearing summery, floor-length models, assisted in the courtesies.

The tea table in the dining room overlaid with handsome lace was developed in shades of pink and green with a wide, spreading mound of pink roses and maiden hair forming the central decor. Antique crystal candelabra supporting pink tapers were placed at either end of the table.

Calling between the hours of four and six were: Mrs. B. L. Mulhearn, Miss Mary Mulhearn, Mrs. George Moffett, Miss Sara Elizabeth Moffett, Mrs. George Temple, Mrs. W. S. Brown, Mrs. C. C. Ann Platt Writes Interestingly Of Places Visited During Old World Tour

Monroe Girl Greatly Impressed By Italy

Tells Of Beauties Of Isle Of Capri, Rome, Florence; Sorrento Her Favorite Town

Miss Ann Platt, popular member of the younger set who is traveling in Europe following a Mediterranean cruise, writes an open letter to her friends. As you will agree, it is much more satisfactory than fragmentary bits written on post cards or individual letters to a few. She says:

"Excited as we were finally to be disembarking for good and setting out on European soil, we hated to leave the good old Vulcania, where we'd had such fun. But we had to make our farewells at Naples—never realizing how often we'd run into our fellow passengers after we left the boat.

"We just rode through Naples. Saw a very ancient-looking castle which once had housed the Aragon and Aujon family, the opera house where Caruso first sang—and that was about all. We drove straight out to Pompeii over the big modern and beautiful 'Autostrata'—still another evidence of Mussolini's efficient Italian hand. The ruins at Pompeii were fascinating—as our excellent guide, 'Mother' Rocco (whom we all adored) kept pointing out to us—'Nothing is new under the sun.' Lead pipes carrying water all over town—elaborate baths—and the lovely mosaics everywhere, especially the famous 'Cave Cavern'—'Beware of the dog,' which was evidently used not entirely as a decoration.

"After lunch we took the beautiful Amalfi drive—a narrow, winding road, crawling along the high rocky cliffs along the unbelievably blue water—breath-takingly beautiful, and breath-takingly nerve-wracking to me. We stopped at Amalfi only long enough for a lemonade and a visit to what was once a Cappuccini monastery. We arrived at Sorrento ravenous and exhausted, but after tea and a hot bath we set out to stroll around the town before dinner. The linen shops were wonderful; we lingered in them until the policemen closed up the place and ran us out!

"Sorrento, I believe, was my favorite southern town. Our rooms overlooked the beautiful bay of Naples and the night we were there there was a full moon. Really, it was so lovely it almost hurt. The Isle of Capri, which we visited the next day, was just as beautiful as you imagine it, and the famous Blue Grotto is simply indescribable.

"From Capri, we went back to Naples and right on to the train for Rome. Arrived in Rome just in time for bed—and started out the next day on organized sight-seeing with an excellent guide. The Vatican, the ruins of the Forum and the Coliseum, the Appian Way, St. Peter's and St. Paul's, the Catacombs—we really got at least a glimpse of nearly all the high spots. I remember particularly the dome of the Sistine Chapel in the Vatican and Michelangelo's statue of Moses.

"On to Florence on the most horribly uncomfortable train I've ever been on—we jerked for four hours. Florence looked more than lovely to us; after dinner we all went for a drive in a quaint little carriage, then home and to bed to rest up for our two days here.

"I'm so glad that our first port of call after leaving New York was Boston, a city so closely associated with our early history. I enjoyed its narrow winding streets and austere houses, and came to realize more than ever what part its people played in the Revolutionary war.

"The romantic names you read about are commonplace enough there: Paul Revere, Governor Winthrop, the Adamses. But the real reason why I'm glad I saw Boston before we touched Europe is this: 1776 seems such a long time ago to us Americans—not quite 200 years ago! That is age to me; yet today in Lisbon and Cintra, we rode over roads that must have been there, if not in such good repair, before Columbus dreamed of sailing west!

"At the famous and beautiful Cathedral of Jeronymus in Lisbon we saw the tomb of Vasco da Gama, Portugal's great adventurer who showed the way to the others who came farther than he. Everywhere you get the impression of age; not Boston age, which is, after all, New World, but old, crumbling, sometimes chilly and oppressive age.

"The country is very beautiful though, and well-taken-care-of. I suppose with so little land every inch of it must be—and is—cultivated. Today we drove through fields of wheat and groves of olive trees over the narrowest, most dangerously curved road I've been on, to the Castello de Pena, which is perched on top of a mountain about fifteen miles from Lisbon.

"Really, the drive left us breathless; the men drove like fiends, and the roads are scarcely wide enough for two cars to pass. The castle was well worth the pain of the ride, though; a bit on the grim side, but some of the arches and tiled facades were really beautiful. It housed some of the royal family before Portugal became a republic, and we were shown through some of the rooms they occupied.

"I'm afraid that even the glory of having royal blood wouldn't make up to me for having to live in such a place, though; all the rooms were quite small, and how the place was ever heated I do not know. Even on a July morning, it was cold as a tomb. Let me repeat, the place was beautiful—but rather uncomfortable.

"On the way back to town we visited the gardens at Nonserrate, which I cannot begin to describe; all I can say is that every scene was so lovely we were all speechless with delight. We saw many exotic flowers which you wouldn't believe if I told you about them, and others familiar to us but of such extravagant size and color! Begonias as big as magnolias, hydrangeas as big as your head, and everywhere the lovely violet-blue St. Joseph's stick, which is a lily-like cluster on a long spike, the color of ageratum. And a whole hillside covered with these—there's no way to tell how lovely a sight it is.

"Our first foreign port, even before we got to Lisbon, though, was at the Azores, at the little port of Ponte Delgado. Here the impression of age is second to that of color; viewed from the ship which anchored out in the bay, the whole island was ablaze with it. No one paints his house so dull a color as unrelieved white or brown; pink, pale green, blue, and yellow are the favorites, and if you think a pink house with red windows and a row of blue tiles across the front sounds incredible, it's because no one at home has ever tried it. The little town is alive with curious natives, whose chief occupation seems to be staring at the tourists. It was my very first experience with a foreign country, and I'm glad it was Ponte Delgado; it was as exciting and as entirely different as anything could possibly be.

"We drove out to a pineapple plantation and a tea plantation on the island, and much to my surprise I found the green tea leaf to be very much like the smaller leaves on one of our camphor trees. We watched the young girls pick the leaves—so fast you could hardly see their hands move—in a field (or orchard?) enclosed by giant, straight-as-arrow cypress trees, entwined with pink roses and the spaces between their trunks filled in with blue hydrangeas. This, we found, was to keep the wind (and there was a wind! from the tender young leaves—besides giving the whole place the picturesque air of a formal Italian garden.

"From the Azores to Lisbon, then a few hours at Gibraltar the next day. This was to me the leart interesting of all our shore trips; we went halfway up the rock, then through the British fortifications, then along the slopes. I was surprised to find most of the shops there run by Indians.

"Algiers, our one African port, was to me very much what I imagine Paris will be like—broad boulevards, sidewalk cafes, and of course, French is the most-used language there. But the native quarters! Never have I seen such filth or even imagined that people could live as these people do.

"The 'streets' are no wider than a city sidewalk, very tortuous and on various levels; and all along these dirty alleys are mere holes in the wall, little rooms so dark you could hardly tell their size. The people themselves were all filthy too—and the streets were overrun with children, all dirty and usually covered with sores. We were really glad to get out of that part of the city.

"Our last trip ashore before the final disembarkation was Palermo, on the island of Sicily; and we were charmed with the town itself because it was scrupulously clean—much more so than most American cities I've seen.

"We're all ardent Duce fans now—he is Italy, and really has done wonderful things for his people. We left Palermo and took a motor trip to Monreale and through the beautiful countryside to Montedallo beach for tea. Then back to Vulcania for our last night on board—and we all feel a little sad about leaving her!"

Helpful Hints For Vacation

It's the season for summer resorts—for new friendships—new romances.

The seashore, the mountains, camps in out-of-the-way places, are drawing hundreds of Monroe vacationists this year.

If you want to make the most of your holiday go prepared to have a good time, to divorce your mind from your job and to make the most of your opportunities.

A vacationist who has spent year after year at summer resorts gives the following advice to young men and women who are leaving on their vacations:

Don't expect summer friendships to blossom into winter romances. Then you may be pleasantly surprised if they do.

Don't slight anyone—no matter how unattractive he or she may seem at first. He may turn out to be your one and only. She may be the one who'll introduce him to you.

Don't be a gusher. Be vivacious and ready for fun. But maintain your reserve without seeming to do it.

Don't be catty. The girl you make catty remarks to or about may be the "catch's" sister.

Don't be a squawker. If it rains and spoils your all-day picnic make the most of the indoor games. But don't be a Pollyanna, either.

It's all right to pay your share of the bills when you're in a group of new-found friends. But be tactful about it.

Don't be the strong silent type. She'll suspect you of not having anything to say. And don't be a know-it-all or a "drugstore cowboy." It's always possible someone else may know some of the answers.

Don't be too much of a ladies' man or they'll gang up on you—both men and women.

Don't boast of your romantic triumphs. You'll only make people dislike you.

Don't be a check-fumbler. For the sake of your own comfort find out in advance what things are going to cost. Don't let yourself in for anything you can't pay for.

Don't force yourself into a group of sports enthusiasts who outclass you completely. You'll only ruin their game and perhaps demoralize your own.

Martha Hatchell Observes Birthday

Martha Hatchell celebrated her fourth birthday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hatchell, on Park avenue, Monday afternoon between the hours of 4:30 and 6.

Thirty-five playmates were present to wish Martha a happy birthday and to enjoy the games introduced by Mrs. Virginia Butler, WPA playground instructor.

After the serving of ice cream and birthday cake, favors were distributed to each child.

The guest list included the following: "Buck" Brown, Frances Black, Marcianne Renaud, Terri Sue Tidwell, Georgianne Blanchard, Tommy Jane Lawhead, Leonard Shlenker, Jr., Dicky Guerriero, Jimmy Hanchey, Rose Mary McGinn, Martha Clayton Sparks, Linda Hair, Arthur Hugh Matthews, Emmy Lou Barton, Anne Holcombe, Nell Bridge, Walker Scott, Jr., Weaver Roberts, Ralph King, Charles Martin, Margery Sue Norton, Oland Black, Bob Garrison, Jo Rhodes, Palmer Huey, Tom Pat McGee, Barbara Ann Kelso, Bert Kramer, Betty Jean Shirah, Joe Young, Ralph Troy and Kate DeLarot.

Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Hemperley and daughters, Helen and Betty Jane, of Vivian, have been visiting Mrs. A. T. White and other relatives in Monroe.

Mangham

Miss Ethel Watson entertained her bridge club. Those enjoying the games were Miss Annette Humble, Miss Marguerite Humble, Mrs. Monroe Hixon, Miss Willie Brown, Miss Ada Preston, Mrs. R. F. McGee, Mrs. E. T. Lee, Mrs. B. N. Hixon, Mrs. Alex Watson, Miss Kate Talbert, Mrs. Linda Pardue, and Miss Watson.

New York and Albany were named after Baby Stuart, the Duke of York and Albany, who later became James II.

Mrs. Harry Walker Of Wisner Honored

Mrs. E. E. Ewing Entertains With Reception And Miscellaneous Shower

Mrs. Harry Walker, who before her recent marriage was Miss Dixie Gilbert, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Harry Gilbert of Wisner, was the central figure in a group of intimates in the home of Mrs. E. E. Ewing who entertained complimentary to Mrs. Walker with a reception and miscellaneous shower.

Mrs. Walker wore on this occasion one of her distinctive trousseau gowns of aquamarine blue chiffon with corsage of Souvenir roses.

Mrs. Ewing, wearing a smart semi-evening model stood in the flower-banked reception suite with her guest of honor to receive the guests, numbering one hundred or more.

The guest of honor's mother and sister, Mrs. Gilbert and Miss Addie Gilbert, also assisted in receiving.

The tea table, overlaid with handsome Italian cut work, had for central decor a flaring silver bowl overflowing with pink Radiance roses, rose pastel shaded dahlias and trailing lengths of rose of Montana. Silver candlesticks at the four corners supported rose-colored tapers.

Ices in the pastel colors and delicious petit-fours, beautifully embossed, were passed among the guests on silver trays. Pastel-tinted mints and other confections were served.

The gifts presented to Mrs. Walker were unusually handsome, outstanding being a silver service, and a chest of flat silver, a gift from the bride's parents. A complete set of Havilland and Wedgwood china and numerous gifts of crystal and linen were included in the handsome assortment.

Prentice Castle To Accept Memorial

Prentice Castle, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Castle, will be privileged to accept the fountain dedicated to the memory of Mrs. Pearl Morgan in behalf of the family, friends and children of the Ouachita Parish Grammar school, when the formal dedication takes place September 12. Prentice is the only relative of the late Mrs. Morgan in the grammar school where she taught for many years and was one of the most generally beloved members of the faculty.

The fountain, made possible by donations made by children, members of Mrs. Morgan's family and her wide circle of friends, will be dedicated on the opening day of school.

Misses Elizabeth and Dorothy Hope Davis have returned from Covington, La., where they were the guests of Mrs. A. L. Saxon during July.

Misses Armandine and Irene Quinn Renaud motored to New Orleans to attend the convention of the Dancing Masters of America, of which organization Miss Armandine Renaud is a member. En route they spent the night in Baton Rouge to attend the recital in which Miss Sybil Renaud, instructor in the Armandine Renaud school of dancing in this city, was featured.

Miss Virginia Galloway, guest in the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Grisham, for the past two months, returned to her home in Bolivar, Tenn., last week.

The Sundial

going to stay with the relatives who live in those parts, like the Adair Monroes in Rye, Harry Labouisse, Jr., and wife Betty in Connecticut, and Mrs. Cole and Mildred at their apartments in New York.

"Apartments in the plural is right, because singer Mildred has to be in a building where none live but musical artists. It has sound-proof walls and they can all warble, bang, tootle and trumpet to their heart's content without irate neighbors complaining. She and Sam are going to live in Forest Hills, L. I., so I hope the next house isn't too near to interfere with her lovely voice at practice.

"First to leave is Sam's mother, Mrs. Sam Labouisse, who was Alice Monroe, as near August 1 as she can get packed. Then around August 6 they leave in droves. Cousin George Williams, Jr., is driving aunts Mrs. Gustaf Westfeldt and Mrs. Muldrup Logan up; Miss Kitty Labouisse, Jeanne Richardson, John Saunders, David Labouisse and Monroe and Carolyn Gay Labouisse form another group; Rayburn and Rose Milling Monroe are parking the baby and trained nurse with her parents and after the wedding are going to Highlands for two weeks; Malcolm and Mary Monroe, who are now with her parents in Canada, will be there, she to go back to Canada afterwards and he to come home.

Sam's uncle and aunt, the Adair Monroes of Rye, are giving them a huge swimming party and buffet dinner the night before the wedding, with a stag dinner the night before that. Also there is Mrs. Robert Rand of New York, she who was Mina Bernard of New Orleans and was first married to Sam's uncle, the late Grier Monroe. Her son, Grier Monroe, is only 14, but her daughter, Jeanne Monroe, is making her debut in Newport this summer and will come here with her mother to debut next winter."

When you motor past well-ordered homes where shades are drawn against the afternoon sun and life seems suspended for the time being, perhaps you wonder what the occupants are doing. Edith Meyer, for one, is never idle. Her handsome home is managed by a corps of perfectly trained servants, yet her hands are busily engaged. She has just finished needlepoint covers for two antique footstools, purchased last year in the North Carolina mountains. One stool with a green background and needlepoint in harmonious colors matches the great armchair of jade velvet near the fireplace and the other with a gold background is a complement for the gold colored wing chair near the long French windows. Her needlepoint was of secondary consideration, however, when Beau Brummel, her pet bulldog, developed blood poisoning and lay at death's door. It took the united efforts of Edith and a veterinarian working all night to save him. The strangest thing happened to "Bummie." He was bitten by a large blackbird, resembling a humming bird, but whose bite is said to be deadly poison. Even now there is a long red scar where infection immediately set in.

The Jack Rogers menage will be without a mistress during the month of August. Enola is off for Blowing Rock, N. C. One wonders how she can muster up enough courage to leave this lovely spot she calls home. It is so cool and green and comfortable looking now that additional acreage has been purchased and landscaped. A wide sweep of lawn on the north side gives a hint of space and adds considerably to the beauty of the surroundings. Lena May Woods is talking of joining Enola in Blowing Rock but there will be a toss-up between the place she prefers and the place her sons have selected. They love the gulf coast and would rather vacation there than any other place.

MRS. J. L. FRANCIS, Owner and Instructor

Jonesboro

Mrs. J. S. Kingrey, of Kinder, La., who is visiting her mother, Mrs. Carrie Jones, was the honor guest at a bridge party given by Mrs. Jack Bailey and Mrs. Emmett Stewart in the latter's home.

Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. Stewart gave as guest prize a vanity, and to Mrs. Archie Lewis of Shreveport, the hostesses presented cut flowers.

For high score at bridge Mrs. Leon Mitchell received azalia stationery, and for second high, Mrs. Edwin Cox received dusting talcum. Linen handkerchiefs went to Mrs. John C. Michaud for high spade cut.

A salad course was served to the following; Mrs. J. S. Kingrey, Mrs Archie Lewis, Mrs. Stanley Lewis, Miss Edith Cox, Mrs. Edwin Cox, Mrs. Leon Mitchell, Mrs. Clifford Woodward, Mrs. McGatlin, Mrs. Wilbur McDonald, Mrs. W. T. Holloway, Mrs. John C. Michaud, and the hostesses, Mrs. Jack Bailey, and Mrs. Emmett Stewart.

Mrs. W. T. Holloway was hostess at a reception complimenting her mother, Mrs. J. Smith of Little Rock, Ark. Mrs. Holloway, assisted by her sister, Mrs. Sylvester Kirkland of Arcadia, received the guests on the lawn of her home.

The hostess served cookies and open faced sandwiches, cosmos shaped and in pastel shades. Green ices were dispensed from a crystal bowl.

The Ella K. Hooper circle of the Jonesboro Methodist Missionary society met in the home of Mrs. E. W. Stewart. The devotional, "Need of Bible Readings," was led by Mrs. Ed Cox. This was followed by a short business session conducted by Mrs. W. S. McDonald. The lesson, taught by Mrs. A. A. Meredith, was an outline study of "Hebrews," "The Seven Catholic Epistles," and "Revelations."

Mrs. Stewart served a salad course and iced tea to the following members: Mrs. Leon Mitchell, Mrs. A. A. Meredith, Mrs. W. S. McDonald, Mrs. Ed Cox, Mrs. J. C. Baker, Mrs. J. F. Sneed, Mrs. John Swanson, Mrs. Stanley Lewis, and Mrs. Brown Traylor.

Sunglasses Can Be Good Even When They're Cheap

By Betty Clarke
(Associated Press Feature Service Writer)

What's all the row about cheap sunglasses?

All sunglasses should serve one or both of two purposes, says Joseph S. Halpert, former president of the Guild of Prescription Opticians of America. There are glasses for those who need visual aid and glasses for those who only want protection from strong sunlight.

If you need sunglasses for long drives or while you're using your eyes a great deal—or if you try cheap sunglasses and find that your head aches—you should get glasses with ground and polished linses.

But there is no reason why you should not buy a cheap pair in which the glass may not be ground or polished—if you know what to look for and how to buy, Mr. Halpert explains.

"It's like a sale. Among the cheap glasses there are good glasses. There are also an awful lot of poor ones. You get quality if you know how to look for it."

How would you judge sunglasses?

There are four things to watch for: strie—extraneous matter that keeps the glass from being clear, matter which may be found in expensive glasses, too, bubbles, distortion due to imperfect treatment of the glass, and inconsistency of color (one lens darker than the other, for instance).

Here's how to test sunglasses:

Hold them still and look at a light through them; move them up and down. If the object you're looking at moves around as it would in a Coney Island distortion mirror—don't buy. If, however, there isn't distortion (motion), if the colors of the lenses match and if the glass is clear, you're doing all right in your bargain hunt.

Sunglasses serve to filter out harmful ultra-violet and infra-red light rays. Note the new, deeper shade of these lenses.

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH
Jackson At Wood Streets
Walter C. Scott, Minister
"The Church With The Lighted Steeple"

George Washington's pastor said of him: "No company ever kept him away from church. I have often been at Mt. Vernon on the Sabbath morning when his breakfast table was filled with guests. But to him they furnished no pretext for neglecting his God and losing the satisfaction of setting a good example. For instead of staying at home out of fancied courtesy to them, he used constantly to invite them to accompany him."

Invite your guests to come with you and worship at this church. At the morning service the minister will use for the sermon theme, "Beginning to Sink." Evening services are held at 8 o'clock.

The Woman's Missionary society will meet at the church Tuesday, at 3 p.m., for the monthly business meeting.

Prayer meeting Wednesday at 7:45 p.m.

THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Grammont At Catalpa
Ernest Holloway, Pastor

"Presbyterians in History" is the subject to which our attention will be directed. Having spoken to the creed and practices of our faith we are to think about the men and women who have lived out their convictions. Will you, the members of the congregation, worship with us that we may consider the actions of folk who believe as we do?

"The Consecration of Courtesy" is the theme of the evening meditation. This is the last of several considerations given to the letter of Paul to the church in Philippi. We propose to summarize the ideas of the epistle.

The Sabbath school attendance is most gratifying. Can we have 300 this Sabbath? There is a place for you. The leaders and members of the classes will be happy to have you. The Men's class meets in the Paramount theater; the other groups in the church buildings.

Our Lord expects His people to be loyal and faithful. "If ye love me, keep my commandments." "Why callest thou me Lord and doest not the things I command?" "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy."

METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH

'The Crowd Roars' Comes To Paramount Next Friday

Taylor Star Of Thrilling Ring Picture

Outstanding Supporting Cast Included In Paramount Attraction

ROBERT TAYLOR plays his first prizefight role in "The Crowd Roars," action-packed story of the modern prize ring, opening next Friday at the Paramount theater for an engagement of three days.

Maureen O'Sullivan, who played opposite the star in "A Yank at Oxford," is once again cast as Taylor's heroine in the new picture and an exceptional cast of prominent screen names includes Edward Arnold as a racketeer, Frank Morgan as Taylor's father, an ex-vaudeville "ham," William Gargan, Lionel Stander and Jane Wyman.

Based on a story by George Bruce, author of "Navy Blue and Gold," the picture reveals behind-the-scene activities of the boxing game, with Taylor as a pawn in the shady manipulations of a gambling syndicate.

"The Crowd Roars" offers Taylor in the hardest-hitting role of his career as Tommy McCoy, the boy from the wrong side of the tracks, who fights his way up from the slums to a chance at the light-heavyweight championship.

Three smashing bouts in the colorful setting of Madison Square Garden climax the eventful career of the young fighter, who finds a battle with racketeers more serious than his challenge for the title.

The screen play of "The Crowd Roars" is the work of Thomas Lennon, George Bruce and George Oppenheimer. The picture was directed by Richard Thorpe.

Beautiful June Travis, who plays opposite Wayne Morris in the Capitol theater's Tuesday attraction, "The Kid Comes Back."

"The Crowd Roars" brings Robert Taylor and Maureen O'Sullivan, the two sweethearts of "A Yank at Oxford," together again in a pulsating, red-blooded story of a prizefighter who wins fame and romance against overwhelming odds. Also in the cast of the new picture coming to the Paramount theater next Friday, are Edward Arnold, Frank Morgan, William Gargan and Lionel Stander.

Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper return in Robert Louis Stevenson's classic story of buccaneer adventure, "Treasure Island," playing today and Monday at the Capitol theater.

Beery Tops Star Cast At Capitol

Jackie Cooper And Lionel Barrymore Play In 'Treasure Island'

THE generations of people both young and old who have been thrilled by "Treasure Island," Robert Louis Stevenson's famous story of pirate adventure, will find the vivid story-book experiences of their youth created on the screen in the picture that opens today at the Capitol theater, with Wallace Berry and Jackie Cooper in co-starring roles.

Full power of the most widely read fiction book about pirates ever written has been retained in the adaptation by John Lee Mahin. Scenes have been reproduced exactly as described in the book with much of Stevenson's own dialogue between the characters followed to the word.

With Beery as Long John Silver and Jackie Cooper as Jim Hawkins, boy adventurer, a cast has been assembled to bring each rover of the Spanish Main to the screen with living reality. Lionel Barrymore's blustering Billy Bones is one of the most entertaining characters he has ever played; Otto Kruger is forceful as Dr. Livesey; Lewis Stone's personal knowledge of sailing ships gives convincing background to his role of Captain Smollett; Nigel Bruce is a ruddy and typically English Squire Trelawney; touches of quaint humor are put into the characterization of Ben Gunn, marooned pirate, by Chic Sale.

Also commendable in their minor roles are little Cora Sue Collins, William V. Mong, Charles McNaughton and Dorothy Peterson.

Victor Fleming, noted for the filming of such adventure pictures as "Rendezvous" and recently "Red Dust," directed the pirate film with rare skill and imagination.

WILMOT TO GET AID IN FORMING C. OF C.

Business interests in Wilmot, Ark., have been desirous of having a chamber of commerce formed there and to this end have solicited aid from the local organization.

George D. Holland, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of Monroe and West Monroe, accompanied by several board members, will attend a meeting to be held in the Bank of Wilmot Monday at 7:30 p.m.

W. B. de Yampert, prominent merchant and planter of Wilmot, is the prime mover in securing a new organization for his city.

Some weeks ago, Monroe Chamber of Commerce representatives went to Bastrop and aided in the formation of a group there which is now functioning successfully and has a paid full-time secretary.

Martha Raye and Bob Burns in a scene from "Tropic Holiday," playing today for the last times at the Paramount theater, with America's favorite tropical lovers, Dorothy Lamour and Ray Milland.

He's going to "Crime School." Billy Halop, one of the famous "Dead End" hoodlums, and Gale Page in a tense scene from "Crime School" which will play Monday and Tuesday at the Paramount theater.

Meet Kay's movie family. Kay Francis plays mama to Bonita Granville, Bobby Jordan, Anita Louise and Dickie Moore in "My Bill," which plays Wednesday and Thursday at the Paramount theater.

Maureen O'Sullivan and Dennis O'Keefe in a scene from "Hold That Kiss," which stars Mickey Rooney. It comes to the Capitol screen on Thursday.

Gary Cooper as Marco Polo makes love to lovely Sigrid Gurie, in "The Adventures of Marco Polo," the rollicking screen romance coming to the Capitol theater Wednesday.

LINCOLN SCHOOL BOARD TO STUDY BIDS FOR BONDS

RUSTON, La., July 30.—(Special)—Bids for the Lincoln parish school bonds authorized for issuance in an election June 29 will be considered by the parish school board members at their regular meeting in the courthouse here at 10 a.m., Monday, it has been announced. If a satisfactory bid is submitted, the board will be in position to sell the bonds at that time, although actual delivering of the bonds will be delayed a few weeks in accordance with certain legal requirements, it was stated by H. L. Campbell, superintendent of schools.

The voters in the special election approved the issuing of $325,000 in bonds to supplement a federal grant for building a new high school and domestic science building in Ruston. It will not be necessary to sell the full amount of the bonds, however, Mr. Campbell said. It is estimated that the school projects here will cost about $480,000, but the school board has on deposit in a bank here a sum of about $90,000, resulting from the sale of previous bonds, and a PWA grant of about $217,000 seems assured, the superintendent announced. With that $90,000 and the $217,000, totaling $307,000, it will be necessary to sell but $173,000 in bonds, he pointed out.

Upon selling the bonds and obtaining the PWA money, the school board expects to start construction of the new buildings not later than September 15, Mr. Campbell said. A location for the proposed structures has yet to be selected by the board.

EXTENSION CLASSES

NATCHITOCHES, La., July 30.—(Special)—More than 400 students have enrolled in 22 classes for inter-session work next month at the Louisiana State Normal college here, W. J. Avery, director of extension at the college, announced. The enrollment is the largest inter-session extension group in the history of the State Teachers' college.

CAMP FIRE CLOSES ITS OUTING AT KI-RO-LI

The 30 members of the local Camp Fire group broke camp at Ki-Ro-Li Saturday morning as the finale of a six-day camping outing which proved highly successful.

Breakfast was the last meal served on Saturday morning, after which the girls and their leaders broke camp and left for home.

A big council fire was held Friday night, when many honors were bestowed and when parents and friends of the campers were entertained as special guests of the occasion.

WHITE'S FERRY ELECTS 'MAYOR'

M. M. Bayles was elected "mayor" of White's Ferry community at an "election" and cake walk held there Friday night and which was attended by approximately 200 people. The cake walk was given for the benefit of the White's Ferry baseball club.

J. D. Nolan opposed Mr. Bayles for the post of "mayor" and addressed the voters to whom he promised, if elected that they would "have less work and more fishing."

Mr. Bayles' promise of a "bridge across Bayou D'Arbonne and the blocking of the ferry road" had the stronger appeal and when the election was held after the cake walk it was found that he had won the office by a comfortable majority.

Acie Albright, Jr., and O. L. Bates were in charge of the cake walk and thanked those who patronized it and thus assisted the baseball club at White's Ferry.

JULY PROVES BEST MONTH FOR RECRUITING IN NAVY

R. L. Smith, United States navy recruiting officer, with headquarters in Shreveport, stated Saturday that July has proved the best month for enlistments in a long time.

He also announced that the recruiting office in the new postoffice in Monroe will be open from August 24-26, and it is hoped that there will be a large number of applicants at that time.

A new and efficient microphone and connecting cable has recently been devised for airplane service. It is highly directional, picking up a minimum of external noise.

NORMAL CROP OF COTTON ASSURED

Corn And Feed More Abundant Than In Many Previous Years

Farmers are anticipating that the first cotton of the 1938 crop will be ginned on or about August 15, which is about the usual time that the first of the crop is marketed. There is always considerable rivalry as to who will have the first cotton ginned and the first bale is usually placed on display in one of the banks and sold to the highest bidder.

The crop this year is a little late but the past 30 days it has developed well and if the rains hold off, it is expected that a normal crop will be harvested. Cotton in the hill sections of the parish has made a good growth the past several weeks, stated J. T. Austin, local gin operator.

Corn also and feed crops are in good condition and promise to exceed those of four or five years past, Mr. Austin said.

In order to be ready to handle the ginning business, considerable new machinery has been purchased by Mr. Austin for the plant of the Standard Gin and Manufacturing company, where the capacity is approximately 200 bales daily.

The gin will be operated day and night when once started up for the season so that there will be no unnecessary delays experienced.

French Canadians form about one-third of Canada's population.

HOW FAMILIES 'GET IN AND PITCH' IN POLITICS

Victorious after a campaign in which every member of his family participated, W. Lee O'Daniel is pictured above as he got a congratulatory kiss from his mother-in-law after winning the Texas governorship with a clear majority over 11 opponents. O'Daniel campaigned with a hillbilly band and his two sons and a daughter accompanied him on trips.

Families have always been considered an asset to a political candidate but seldom have they participated in a campaign as actively as 12-year-old John L. McClelland, above, shown making a stump speech in behalf of his congressman-father, who seeks the Democratic senatorial nomination in Arkansas in opposition to Senator Hattie Caraway.

Pinch-hitting for her ailing husband, Mrs. A. B. (Happy) Chandler is shown here as she fulfilled one of the Kentucky governor's speaking engagements in his campaign for the Democratic senatorial nomination. Mrs. Chandler has participated actively throughout the campaign, in which her husband opposes the veteran Alben Barkley, senate majority leader.

TECH TO AWARD DIPLOMAS TO 84

First Summer Commencement Will Be Held Next Wednesday Night

RUSTON, La., July 30.—(Special)—Louisiana Tech's first summer commencement, Wednesday night, August 3, will be featured by the awarding of diplomas to 84 graduates, according to the complete list announced by Mrs. Ruby B. Pearce, registrar. Including the 198 students who received their degrees at the graduation exercises in June, Tech's graduates for the year total the record number of 282 students.

Dr. Pierce Cline, president of Centenary college, will deliver the address at the commencement program to be conducted from the west terrace of the administration building at 8 o'clock Wednesday night.

There will be no baccalaureate services but the commencement activities otherwise will be similar to graduation programs at the close of the regular school year, with faculty members as well as the seniors attired in caps and gowns for the academic procession.

The graduating seniors and their parents will be entertained with a faculty reception at 7 p.m., Tuesday, on the lawn by the president's home on the campus.

The following 84 seniors, including 11 late additions to the list of 73 graduates previously reported, are as follows:

RAMPAGING STREAM ISOLATES TOWN

Ordinarily placid, the rivers and streams of Ulster and Sullivan counties, in up-state New York, reached flood-stage under the effects of the torrential rains which have deluged the east for a week, swept away bridges, barns, garages and outbuildings and caused summer vacationists to flee. In the photo above, the waters of Rondout creek are shown swirling around a wooden bridge they washed down. The flooded creek isolated the village of Sundown, N. Y.

RELIGIOUS PROGRAM

READY TO START TO BUILDING TRUCK BODY

Construction of the body of the new American Legion emergency truck is to be started this week, stated C. B. Braun, chairman of a special committee of the L. B. Faulk post delegated to have charge of the securing of a new truck.

Mr. Braun said that material has been obtained and only a few details remain to be adjusted before actual construction will be initiated which should not be later than Monday or Tuesday.

The L. B. Faulk post of the legion will meet at the memorial home, Forsythe park, Monday at 8 p.m. This will be the first meeting to be held since H. Flood Madison, Jr., was installed as post commander.

Committees which will serve during the ensuing year will be named by the post commander at tomorrow night's meeting.

Other matters of importance will be considered at the meeting and all members are expected to be present.

CITY COUNCIL TO MEET

The city council of West Monroe will meet for the regular August meeting at the city hall in that city Monday at 8 p.m. Several matters of importance are said to be likely to be considered.

FSA Supervisor Explains Bankhead-Jones Program

Tells How Ouachita Parish Will Be Affected Under New Legislation

The recent action of the Louisiana Bankhead-Jones tenant purchase committee in designating Ouachita parish as one of the 15 in Louisiana to participate in the $25,000,000 federal farm ownership program means that the federal government will join hands with about 12 of the parish's most promising young tenant families between now and next July to help them, through liberal credit and advisory assistance, to become owners of the land they till.

The American agricultural scene is dotted with young farm families who possess all of the qualifications that are essential to successful farm ownership, yet who are stuck in the bottle neck of tenancy through no fault of their own. The Bankhead-Jones measure is designed to give a limited number of these families an opportunity to achieve farm ownership through government loans.

Last year congress appropriated $10,000,000 to carry out this program in the nation. From this fund Louisiana was allotted $376,890 from which approximately 108 loans were made. The last congress appropriated $25,000,000 for this purpose and Louisiana has been allotted $942,000 to make loans during the current fiscal year beginning July 1, 1938. Officials estimate that this sum will provide for making about 175 loans in Louisiana this year. So far loans in the state have averaged between $3,500 and $4,000 each.

To Name Committee

A committee of three prominent farmers in the parish will be named by the secretary of agriculture to serve on a voluntary basis in selecting loan applicants, approving land purchases and similar detail. This committee will be responsible for seeing to it that the program in this parish is carried out on a sound and equitable basis. It will be an administrative advisory body.

Eligibility Rules

A person, to be eligible to apply for these loans must be bona fide farmer—that is, he must be or have recently been engaged in farming as a means of providing the major portion of the family income as a tenant, farm laborer, sharecropper or recent owner. He must be a citizen of the United States and be unable to obtain an adequate loan on reasonable terms for the purchase of a farm from other sources. No distinctions will be made as to race or creed.

Although the Farm Security administration will encourage all tenant farmers in the parish interested in the land ownership opportunity to apply, it is obvious that only a small fraction of those who do apply can be accepted for a loan. A person's past record will have much to do with his final selection or rejection. The farmer who has a solid record of honesty, industry, ingenuity, willingness to accept advice and cooperate with neighbors will undoubtedly be favored over the one whose past record does not reflect these virtues so strongly. Applications from many very worthy families, however, will have to be filed for future consideration because of the limitation of funds.

What Loan Provides

The loan is made for two things: (1) acquiring a small family-size farm of sufficient size and fertility to support an adequate standard of living; (2) to make such essential improvements on the farm that are necessary to comfortable living and sound farming. By a family-size farm is meant a farm which can be operated without outside labor and which will support the family adequately and produce enough cash to meet payments on the loan and other fixed charges. Actual size, of course, will vary with the individual family, soil types, kind of farming to be done and other variable factors. Existing improvements will be fully utilized. For example, a good house may already be on the farm to be purchased. The loan will be made, in that case, only for enough money to make necessary repairs and renovations on the existing house. Expenditures for improvements will be held to a minimun so that the loan itself can be held to a minimun.

The successful applicant will be given an opportunity to exercise his own preference as to the farm to be purchased. If the farm of his choice meets the requirements outlined above and can be purchased at a price considered by appraisers to be reasonable and in line with existing values in the community, it will be approved. Farms considered too small, too large, too poor, inconveniently located with respect to roads and schools, or subject to overflow or drainage hazards will not be considered in any event.

When the farm is selected a careful estimate will be made of the extent and cost of necessary improvements and repairs. This sum will be added to the cost of the land and the work will be done under the supervision of the Farm Security administration.

These loans will not be rigidly circumscribed by maximum or minimun limits as to amount. In any event no loan will be made for more than the cost of the farm and improvements. Safety of the loan and the ultimate success of the borrower will depend in a large degree on keeping the loan as low as possible and this will be the invariable policy of the government in approving them.

Variable Payments

Loans must be repaid within an agreed period of time not to exceed forty years. The interest rate will be three per cent per annum on all unpaid balances. A surplus above the average annual payment will be collected in periods of abundant production and good prices to enable the buyer to reduce his payments in years when his income is below normal. The farmer may pay the entire indebtedness and take a clear title at any time he can and wants to do so. However, he cannot make final payment, nor will the government's interest be released prior to five years from the making of the loan. This feature is included to prevent speculation. A regular first mortgage lien on the farm is held by the government.

While there is no fixed policy concerning a down payment, preference will be given to applicants who have been able to accumulate enough assets to make a down payment and be able to farm without having to borrow to acquire work stock, good farming implements and other essential equipment.

Living At Home Pianned

The successful applicant for one of these loans must agree to follow certain standards of farming and home management considered essential to success. He must agree, for example, to follow a carefully planned "live-at-home" program, the goal of which will be to produce and preserve food for the family and grow plenty of feed for the livestock. The raising of livestock and poultry, dairying and other supplementary programs will be followed where feasible to augment income. Accepted soil-building and conserving practices will be carried out. Careful home management will be practiced to improve the living standard and health of the family. Budgeting and bookkeeping will be practiced as an essential phase of good management.

The Farm Security administration with the help and advice of the extension service will assist the farmer and his wife in planning and carrying out this intensive program by making available to them the advice and assistance of trained farm and home management supervisors.

The parish rehabilitation supervisor for the Farm Security administration in each of the selected parishes is charged with administrative responsibility for carrying out this program. It is to him that all applications and inquiries should be directed.

It will not be possible to accept applications for Bankhead-Jones loans until Secretary Wallace has appointed the local committee and its members have formulated basic plans for accepting them. Every eligible tenant farmer in Ouachita parish will be given an opportunity to submit an application at the proper time.

WEST MONROE TEACHERS WILL RECEIVE DEGREES

Three members of Crosley school faculty will receive degrees from Louisiana institutions of higher learning August 3.

George W. Welch, principal of Crosley school, will receive the degree of master of arts at Louisiana State university.

Mrs. E. E. Anders and Miss Gladys Gregg, also Crosley school teachers, will receive bachelor of arts degrees from Louisiana Polytechnic institute. Eighty-five other teachers will receive degrees at Tech at the close of the summer session.

NEGRO CHURCH TO LAUNCH PROGRAM

The official board and membership of the Martin Temple Colored Methodist Episcopal church at Nineteenth and Adams streets will begin their community program August 15. This church will be the only one in north Louisiana to have a seven-day-week program, it was stated.

A survey of community needs has been going on for the past two months under the direction of the pastor, Rev. Irvine Garland Penn, and ten workers of Martin temple. The facts presented in the survey demand that the church help meet these needs, Rev. Penn said.

It is the aim of the church to bring spiritual and social resources to each organization to the assistance of all agencies which are working for the restoration of home life of colored people, Rev. Penn said. Special emphasis will be put upon the care of colored children.

"The breaking down of the home life of the negro, and the lack of proper recreation and a public library for negro children present a baffling problem that can only be solved by the negro church using its material, spiritual and moral resources for community welfare," said Rev. Penn. "The rate of negro juvenile delinquency can be lowered through the proper supervision of negro child life. Martin temple has an adequate church building for such a program, and it will be a shame upon those having it in charge, if it is not placed in the life of the city of Monroe to be used for the betterment of their racial group."

DICK TRACY

CHESTER GOULD

MORGUE

HIS NAME IS "CARTY" MACEFIL. HE SUSTAINED A FRACTURED SKULL AND A BROKEN NECK WHEN HE JUMPED FROM A CAR OF THAT SPEEDING FREIGHT TRAIN.

BUT THE FELLOWS IN THE TRUCK —WHAT HAPPENED TO THEM?

WELL, YOU SEE, THEY OPENED FIRE ON US WITH A TOMMY GUN.

I JUMPED FROM THE ROPE LADDER, DOWN INTO THE FREIGHT CAR. CHIEF WEEGEL LAID DOWN FLAT ON TOP OF THE BOX CAR. BOTH OF US RETURNED THEIR FIRE.

ALL WE KNOW IS THEIR TRUCK FINALLY TURNED DOWN A GRAVEL ROAD, BUMPED ALONG FOR A QUARTER OF A MILE, AND WAS ABANDONED.

SCENE: A FARM HOUSE IN THE HILL COUNTRY, ABOUT FIVE MILES FROM THE LOCATION OF THE RECENT GUN BATTLE.

BUT WE'RE ONLY POOR FARMERS,— DON'T SHOOT US.

I WON'T SHOOT YOU IF YOU DO AS I SAY. PICK THE RECEIVER OFF THAT TELEPHONE AND GET BUSY!

CALL YOUR FAMILY DOC— WHOEVER HE IS. TELL HIM YOUR BABY'S SICK. TELL HIM TO GET HERE RIGHT AWAY. QUICK!

I'LL MAKE THE KID CRY — SO THE DOC'LL THINK IT'S GOT A BAD STOMACH ACHE

DON'T YOU TOUCH A FINGER TO THAT CHILD—YOU!

WAH— AH—WA-A- -A-A--

WE TRACED THE TRUCK NUMBER AND FOUND IT HAD BEEN RENTED FROM A TRUCKING COMPANY. THE ONLY EVIDENCE IT CONTAINED WAS A BUNCH OF THESE LAYING UP ON THE DRIVER'S SEAT.

YEAH? WHAT ARE THEY?

THEY'RE OFFICIAL METAL SEALS, USED TO SEAL BOX CARS. —THEY'VE BEEN STOLEN.

AFTER THE THIEVES BREAK OPEN A CAR AND RANSACK IT — THEY REPLACE THE OLD SEAL WITH ONE OF THESE TO ALLAY ANY SUSPICION WHILE THE CAR IS IN TRANSIT.

NOW SIT QUIET TILL THE DOC GETS HERE, AND WHEN HE COMES I'LL OPEN THE DOOR.

AS THE BABY'S HAND STRIKES THE THIEF'S CLOTHING, A HANDFUL OF METAL OBJECTS DANGLING FROM THE GUNMAN'S POCKET DROP SILENTLY INTO THE LITTLE ONE'S BED —
